"THE PAPER WITH A HEART AND A SOUL"

THE SHOW WORLD

The Show People's Newspaper | CHICAGO, JULY 16, 1910. | For All Kinds of Show People

PATENTS CO. ENMESHED IN TANGLE OF ITS OWN.

Johnson-Jeffries Fight Films Begin to Look Like a White Elephant.

The Motion Picture Patents Co. issued a bulletin to exchanges on July reading as follows: "Exchanges are notified not to supply, without the consent of this company, any special motion pictures, including pictures of sparring exihibitions, prize fights and wrestling matches, for use in any place of exhibition on any date less than four weeks subsequent to any date on which unlicensed motion pictures were shown in such place of exhibition.

"All contracts with exhibitors for the supply of special motion pictures must be made subject to immediate cancellation if unlicensed motion pictures are exhibited in the proposed place of exhibition after the date of the execution of the contract."

The intent of this bulletin is obvious. It was expected that some independent exhibitors would want the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures, and if the trust controlled them they were going to compel an exhibitor to take licensed service for five weeks in order to get them.

Agitation Spoils Plan.

The trust had not reckoned with the metropolitan papers, however, which have begun a campaign against the exhibition of the pictures, and many cities have placed a ban upon them. There has not been a desire evinced by independent exhibitors to handle the fight pictures, and if the field is limited to licensed exhibitors alone the pictures do not promise to be a remunerative proposition.

The Johnson-Jeffries fight pictures are not mentioned in the circular, though it is apparent that the intimation meant to be conveyed that the trust controlled them. A peculiar condition exists, however, in that Tom O'Day, of the Great Western Film Co., owns fifty per cent, having purchased Johnson's interest. Mr. O'Day has been made manager under the terms of the contract and passed through Chicago on Tuesday on his way to New York. This is the first instance since the formation of the Motion Picture Patents Co. where it has handled pictures jointly with an independent film man.

JONES, LINICK & SHAFER BUY ALL. FIGHT PICTURE RIGHTS.

Jones, Linick & Shafer have purchased the Illinois rights to the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures, paying therefor the sum of $50,000. They will be shown at the Haymarket theater, Chicago, Saturday evening, July 23, and at the Coliseum the following Monday.

Arthur McMillan has produced a reel which he styles the reproduction of the Johnson-Jeffries fight pictures, which are said to be excellent. A colored man impersonated Johnson and Marty Cutler, Jeffries.

BILLPOSTERS HOLD BIG CONVENTION IN CHICAGO

Meet at the Auditorium Hotel in Three Days' Session—Chennell Retires as President.

The Associated Billposters and Distributors of the United States and Canada held their nineteenth annual convention at the Auditorium hotel, Chicago, July 12, 13, 14. While the election of officers had not taken place as The Show World went to press, it was confidently predicted that the following slate would be elected: P. J. McAliney, president, and Charles Bernard, secretary. George Chennell, the retiring president, was not a candidate for reelection, having served two terms, and his administration receiving the endorsement of the convention.

The following directors were elected for the various districts: J. J. Flynn, Lowell, Mass.; E. C. Donnelly, Boston, Mass.; Barney Link, Samuel Pratt and Alexander Clark, New York; C. A. Yecker, Lancaster, Pa.; Jas. F. O'Mearlia, Jersey City, N. J.; George L. Chennell, Columbus, Ohio; H. C. Walker, Detroit, Mich.; Burnett Robbins and Will J. Davis, Jr., Chicago; P. B. Haber, Fond du Lac, Wis.; P. J. McAliney, St. Louis, Mo.; F. C. Zehrung, Lincoln, Neb.; Chas. T. Kindt, Davenport, Iowa; Jas. F. Curran, Denver, Colo.; J. P. Baird, Little Rock, Ark.; Thos. H. B. Varney, Los Angeles, Cal.; F. R. Ziller, Meridian, Miss.; W. S. Burton, Richmond, Va.; J. E. Shoemaker, Washington, D .C.; L. H. Ramsey, Lexington, Ky., and E. L. Ruddy, Toronto, Ont.

Bernard Is Vindicated.

Secretary Charles Bernard made a satirical speech, defending himself from attacks which he claimed had been covertly made upon his administration. He produced facts and figures in support of his contention that the office had been economically and ably handled, and in closing said that if the convention thought that he merited censure he was willing to receive it. His remarks were followed by thunderous applause, lasting for several minutes, and he sat down with a pleased smile on his countenance over the complete vindication he received.

Dobbs Advocates Publicity.

Addresses were made by large outdoor advertisers, among them S. C. Dobbs, general agent of the Coco-Cola Co. and president of the Associated Advertising Club of America. "For the use of outdoor advertising," said Mr. Dobbs, "a location should be secured as near as possible to that

SHANNON PURCHASES NORRIS-ROWE CIRCUS

Many Buyers on Hand at Last Minute, But Original Bidder Wins Out

At a private sale on Thursday, July 7, W. A. Shannon purchased for $15,000 the Norris & Rowe circus property, for which he had bid $21,000 at the auction sale and had deposited $3,000 earnest money, which was forfeited. The show, therefore, cost him $18,000.

Ed. C. Warner, general traffic manager of the Sells-Floto show, arrived in Chicago Wednesday, July 6, and was informed that W. P. Hall and B. E. Wallace were in Peru prepared to buy the Norris & Rowe show property, and that Mr. Wallace might come into possession of the circus for $15,000. Mr. Warner immediately got into telegraphic communication with H. H. Tammen in Denver, with the result that Mr. Warner left for Peru Wednesday night with the intention of offering $16,000 for the show.

In the meantime C. F. Brotherton, of Ashtabula, Ohio, arrived in Peru Thursday morning and paid over $15,000 to Receiver Beecher of the Peru Trust Co., thereby gaining possession of the show. Had Mr. Warner, acting for Tammen and Bonfils, been successful, in purchasing the Norris & Rowe outfit, it was the intention, it is understood, to utilize the large tableaeu wagons and some other property with the Sells-Floto shows, and put out a ten or twelve car show at a quarter, to make the smaller towns which will not be visited by their big show.

To Play Chicago Lots.

Mr. Shannon has had the Norris & Rowe cars brought into Chicago, where they are lying on a side-track. He believes he can have the show organized and ready for opening in about a month, and it is said that he will play a number of Chicago lots.

AFTER BIG TIM FOR HOLDING STAKES.

New York, July 13.—The most startling development to date in the crusade being made against prize fights came with the charge that Timothy D. Sullivan, the officially designated stakeholder of the Johnson-Jeffries contest, is guilty of having violated the penal laws of this state by acting as custodian of the prize money.

When the law and the facts were placed before Assistant District Attorney Charles C. Nott, at present in charge of the district attorney's office, he said:

"I will investigate as soon as I reach the Criminal Courts building. I am not entirely familiar with this section of the penal law."

The district attorney's office will take immediate action on any evidence tending to show that the laws regarding prize fights have been broken, no matter who the guilty may be.

KANSAS CITY AWAITS COMING OF BIG SHOWS.

Kansas City, July 13.—This city is billed and bannered as never before, heralding the coming of the big circuses and the advertising columns of the newspapers teem with Sells-Floto and Barnum & Bailey matter.

The Sells-Floto engagement which opens next Monday promises to be a record breaker. It is expected that several prominent showmen will visit the circus during its stay here, including Louis E. Cooke, Fred Gollmar, W. O. Tarkington, H. S. Rowe and Lon Williams. H. H. Tammen will come on from Denver Saturday.

The Sells-Floto show has put out 60,000 opposition heralds here, and the billboards are loaded to capacity.

Aiken Leaves Robinson Show.

George Aiken having severed his connection with the John Robinson 10 Big Shows, after a service of twenty-five years with that organization, Ed Knupp, formerly with the Hagenbeck-Wallace show, is doing the railroad contracting, assisted by L. H. Heckman.

Davenport With Sells-Floto.

"Stick" Davenport and his wife, Norma, arrived in Chicago, Monday, on their way to join the Sells-Floto circus at Kansas City, and spent a few days with "Stick's" mother, Mrs. J. L. Davenport, who resides in Chicago. The Davenports join the Sells-Floto shows to fill a vacancy caused by the withdrawal of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hobson, who are leaving the show awaiting the visit of the stork.

Ringlings Play Sioux City.

Sioux City, July 9.—The Ringling Brothers' shows exhibited here today to a fair matinee, with a light house at night. It was commented on the streets that many people in Sioux City were waiting for the Sells-Floto shows, which are to appear here July 28, at a popular price.

RECORDS STAND FOR BUT A DAY

WITH aviation meets in progress in every section of the world and the art of flying developing by leaps and bounds records for human achievement in the air are scarcely made until they are broken. They last but a day.

Of chief interest within the past few days have been the performances of Walter Brooking and Glenn H. Curtiss in Atlantic City, N. J. On Saturday evening, Brookins—but little more than a boy in years—made a world's record for heighth by taking his Wright biplane up to an altitude of 6,175 feet—just 855 feet more than a mile. Brookins' feat was sensationalized by the fact that the descent was made without a drop of fuel in the biplane's tanks, making the motors useless.

On Monday afternoon Glenn H. Curtiss, holder of the international trophy won some months ago in France, set a new American endurance and speed record by flying fifty miles over a measured course in 1 hour, 14 minutes and 59 seconds. Owing to the cross winds encountered Mr. Curtiss never reeched a speed greater than 50 miles per hour and averaged only about 40 miles per hour during the trip. He was materially handicapped as to speed because of having to carry excess apparatus for protection in case he fell into the sea. The course sailed was laid out along the beach and, in some places, over the Atlantic.

The international aviation meet at Bethany Plains, Rheims, France, closed Saturday night but not before every world's record save that for heighth had been broken. The most remarkable performance there was that of Leone Morane who attained a speed of 68 miles per hour. New distance and duration records were established by Olieslagers who made a flight of 244 miles in 5 hours, 3 minutes, and 3 seconds.

BIG BALLOON ON ITS MAIDEN TRIP

"The Drifter" Will Start From Hamilton, Ohio, Saturday.

Hamilton, Ohio, July 13.—This city has been chosen as the starting point for the initial trip of the big passenger balloon, "The Drifter," which was recently built in Cincinnati by Albert Holz and Walter Collins for the purpose of establishing a regular series of balloon trips twice a week from that city. For its first trip the balloon has been chartered by the two local newspapers. The mayor will be asked to christen the big gas bag of which so much is expected.

Walter C. Collins and George R. Howard are to pilot The Drifter on its initial flight and are going to make an effort to lower the American endurance record for length of time in the air; this record is 48 hours and 26 minutes. Mr. Collins is one of the owners of The Drifter and Mr. Howard is the pilot who made the exciting trip from Latonia last November, crossing Lake Erie twice and landing at Derby, N. Y.

BIRD-MAN HURT AT NEWBURYPORT

Newburyport, Mass., July 13.—Foling a spectacular three-mile flight across Plum Island meadows Saturday A. L. Pfitzner, the New York aviator, while flying at a height of seventy-five feet in a Burgess biplane, was hurled into the Plum Island river when the machine which he was operating was capsized by a cross-current of air.

Pfitzner swam ashore and went to the aviation shed, where an examination showed that his head was badly bruised. It is feared that he is also injured internally.

Happenings in the World of Aviation—Brookins Gets Up More Than a Mile—American and European Marks for Endurance Are Set

GERMANY ALIVE TO AIRSHIPS' VALUE

Berlin, July 13.—The German government has unquestionably taken the lead among the nations of the world in recognizing the value of airships in time of war. The war office has evolved a plan for the subsidizing of airships to be owned by private parties. If the intending purchaser agrees to buy a machine which meets the war office's requirements as to speed, size, and passenger capacity, material government aid is forthcoming. The only other conditions are that the vessels shall be placed at the disposal of the government in case of war and for the annual maneuvers. The first subsidized vessel is a Parseval owned by the Imperial Aero Club.

WIRELESS WORK FROM DIRIGIBLE

Berlin, July 13.—The Admiralty Board has arranged for the vessels of the fleet engaged in the grand maneuvers this year to be kept in constant communication with land by means of a dirigible airship fitted with wireless telegraphy. This is the first time that a dirigible has been used for this purpose.

The new Gross airship, the largest craft of the semi-rigid type yet constructed, has been completed for the army. The airship is 302 feet long, 42 feet in diameter; the motors develop 400-horsepower. It has four propellors and carries two gondolas.

WANTS TO COMPETE ONLY AS AMATEUR

Chicago, July 13.—Because he wishes to remain an amateur aviator, Clifford B. Harmon, best known amateur in the western hemisphere, has so far held off his entry to the intercity aeroplane race from Chicago to New York for the $25,000 prize. Harmon is attempting to have the promoters of the race offer a trophy for amateurs. If this is done he will undoubtedly enter.

MEASURES DEPTH OF THE HEAT WAVE

Lowell, Mass., July 13.—Charles J. Glidden, an aeronaut, in an ascension here established the fact that the hot wave which was being experienced Sunday, was 2,100 feet deep. Mr. Glidden went up in the balloon, Massachusetts, and his thermometer remained stationery at 90 degrees until the 2,100-foot elevation had been reached. At that height the temperature suddenly dropped to 70 degrees.

A western aeronautic supply house reports that it is in communication with 3,000 people who are building airships. This is but one firm but gives some idea of the activity in aviation there is in this country at present.

GOVERNMENT TESTS AT TEXAS FORT.

Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, July 10.—A series of new experiments with the Wright aeroplane will be conducted here this week on behalf of the government by Lieut. Ben. D. Foultis. He will make several long distance flights, and do some startling kinds of maneuvering to test the practicability of the machine in time of warfare.

The aeroplane has been equipped with a wireless telegraph outfit and will carry an operator on its long distance flights, who will keep the local wireless station advised of the progress of the trip.

SIX CONTESTANTS ENTERED IN BIG RACE

New York, July 13.—The New York Times announces that it has received six formal entries for the Chicago-New York aeroplane race under the auspices of the Times and the Chicago Evening Post to start from Chicago on October 8 next and to be completed within seven days. The entrants are Glenn H. Curtiss, Charles K. Hamilton, J. C. Mars, Captain Thomas Baldwin, J. D. McCurdy, the Canadian aviator, and O. P. Hellings, a machinist of Newark, N. J., who is building an aeroplane of his own design.

AVIATOR KINET FATALLY HURT

Ghent, Belgium, July 13.—Daniel Kinet, the Belgium aviator, was seriously hurt Sunday while making a flight. The rudder of his machine broke when he was at a considerable height and the aeroplane turned over several times, dropping like a stone in a wheat field. It is thought that Kinet is fatally injured.

AIR LINE FROM LONDON TO PARIS

London, July 13.—Lady Abdy, wife of Sir William Abdy, Bart, has offered to give $250,000 toward the promotion of a scheme for an aerial passenger line between London and Paris. A committee of prominent aviators is to be formed to utilize the gift in the construction of a combined dirigible balloon and aeroplane which will carry passengers between this city and the French capital.

OCTAVE CHANUTE IS IMPROVING.

Paris, July 13.—Octave Chanute, the Chicago engineer and pioneer aviator, who was brought here a few days ago from Carlsbad, suffering from bronchial pneumonia, is showing steady improvement. He is being treated in the American hospital.

MARTYRS TO AVIATION

The rapid development in the art of navigating the air has not been without its accidents and the roster of martyrs to aviation is constantly growing. One of the first accidents which took place in developing the aeroplane resulted about fifteen years ago when lay-brother John Montgomery, of the Jesuit institution at Santa Clara, Cal., sent a man named Maloney up into the air 3,000 feet out of which he was to jump and test a glider; Maloney jumped as per instructions and was dashed to bits. Other fatalities are recorded as follows:

Sept. 17, 1908.—Lieutenant Selfridge, U. S. A., killed by fall of Wright aeroplane driven by Orville Wright, at Fort Myer, Washington.

Sept. 7, 1909.—Eugene Lefavre, in Wright aeroplane, killed at Juvisy Sur-Orge.

Sept. 7, 1909.—Ena Rossi, Italian, killed in Rome in machine of his own inventon.

Sept. 22, 1909.—Captain Louis Ferdinand Ferber, of French army, flying under name of M. De Rue, killed in Voisin biplane at Boulogne, France.

Berlin, Nov., 1909.—Dr. Brenckmann and Hugo Francke, two noted Germans, were killed through the collapse of their balloon.

Dec. 6, 1909.—Antonio Fernandez, Spanish, killed at Nice, France, by fall of 1,000 feet. Motor exploded.

January, 1910.—Leon Delagrange, French aviator, while trying to break the speed records, saw his aeroplane wings suddenly blown inside out. The machine darted to the ground like a rocket and the aviator was killed.

April 2, 1910.—Hubert Le Blon, Frenchman, fell at San Sebastian, Spain, with his aeroplane, from a height of 140 feet. He was beaten to a jelly.

April 3, 1910.—The German balloon Pommern burst in midair, throwing three men to earth, killing all.

April 4, 1910.—At Breslau, Germany, Prof. Abegg was killed while attempting a landing with his dirigible balloon.

April 5, 1909.—Balloon carrying two men and a woman came down in the breakers off the French coast. The men were rescued in a half-drowned condition. Their companion's body was never found.

April 16, 1910.—Four men dropped 500 feet with exploded dirigible balloon in Germany. All were killed.

May 13, 1910.—Chauvetto Michelin in Antoinette monoplane, hit derrick near Paris and instantly killed.

June 2, 1910.—Zesily, a Hungarian, killed at Budapest while making flight.

June 3, 1910.—M. Popoff, instructor of aviation in Russian army, killed at Gatchina, Russia, in Wright machine.

June 15, 1910.—At the Worcester, England, agricultural fair, aviator Dartigan lost control of machine and dashed into crowd, killing one woman and injuring many.

June 9, 1910.—Herr Fery, a German aviator, dashed into crowd at Budapest, fatally injuring two women.

June 16, 1910.—Eugene Speyer, 17 years old, boy, killed at San Francisco in a glider.

June 18, 1910.—Herr Robe, in Farman biplane, fell 200 feet and was killed ,at Stettin, Germany.

July 3, 1910.—Charles Wachter, in Antoinette monoplane, fell and was killed at Rheims. Wife and child witnessed accident.

Walter L. Marr, of Flint, Mich., designer of the first Buick automobile has constructed a biplane of his own design in which he made successful flights in Denver, Colo.

NOTED AVIATORS DASHED TO DEATH

Young Englishman's Biplane Turns Turtle and German's Baloon Explodes

Bournemouth, Eng., July 12.—The Hon. C. S. Rolls, famous aviator, who attracted the attention of the world not long ago when he flew from England to France and return without lighting on French soil, was killed while driving a Wright biplane here today.

The accident brought to a close the first flying tournament of the year in England and was witnessed by a large crowd of people, many of them friends of the unfortunate aviator, who had been attracted to the field by the announcement that he would fly.

The machine collapsed when about 200 feet above the ground, owing to the failing of the rear rudders, which either slipped or were displaced by air pressure.

The Hon. C. S. Rolls was the son of Lord Llangattock.

Berlin, July 13.—The giant passenger-carrying balloon, Erbsloeh, designed by Oscar Erbsloeh, the daring aviator who won fame in America in 1907 when he captured the international ballooning cup, was dashed to the ground today in a heavy gale near Cologne. Erbsloeh and four other occupants of the car were killed.

The balloon exploded when 2,500 feet in the air, the general opinion being that the varying temperature, as the result of a storm and the increasing heat of the day, caused the gas to expand beyond the capacity of the bag. The balloon fell with surprising speed, and the bodies of its occupants were so badly mangled that it was with considerable difficulty that they were identified.

SHORT AERIAL FLIGHTS

Harold Hall has made successful flights in a Greene biplane at San Jose, Cal.

N. E. Brown, of Grand Rapids, Mich., is installing a ten-horse power engine in the airship which he has designed.

Two firemen of St. Joseph, Mo., James Frye and Fred Heckle, will complete a monoplane of their own construction early in August.

The Peoria Aircraft Club has been formed to back C. Slim, of Chillicothe, Ohio, in the construction of an aeroplane along original lines.

Latest advices have it that the proposed route of the New York-Chicago aviation race for the $25,000 prize will follow the New York Central's railroad line.

Sydney Borman, of Attleboro, Mass., is perfecting a biplane with a special type of motor. Members of the board of trade are interested in the machine.

The National Aviation & Construction Company, of Boston, Mass., has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000 for the manufacture of balloons and aeroplanes.

The London "Daily Mail" has offered a prize of $5,000 for a circular flight of 1,000 miles over England and Scotland. The flight must take place, weather permitting, during the second week in July, 1911.

William Hilliard, of Boston, recently made the longest aeroplane flight ever made in Massachusetts when he traveled one and one-half miles in two minutes and fifteen seconds in the face of a driving rain.

Prof. Schutte, of Dantzig, Germany, is building a new dirigible which will be larger than the Deutschland which was recently destroyed. It will be of the rigid type and will be driven by engines with 1,000 horse-power capacity.

It was only in 1908 that Glenn H. Curtiss won the Scientific American trophy by staying off the ground for three-fifths of a mile; that record stood throughout that year. Curtiss did something more than fifty miles the other day.

Following the announcement that Walter Wellman would attempt to cross the Atlantic ocean in a baloon comes the announcement that Wilhelm, Rettig, German engineer, architect, and artist, is building a wooden balloon to try the journey from the other side.

One of the latest developments in the construction of aeroplanes is being tried out at the big aviation field at Mineola, L. I. Keels intended to be attached to the aeroplanes to keep them on their given course and to protect them from cross winds have been invented.

A. M. Williams, an aviator, of Douglas, Ariz., has accepted a contract to convey placer mining machinery from Douglas to a property in the Chihuahua mountains, Mex. This is thought to be the first contract which recognizes the aeroplane as a commercial carrier.

Edwin Gould has offered a prize of $15,000 for the first successful aeroplane with more than one propellor and more than one independent motor that will provide means of safe flight in case either of the driving devices is disabled. This offer makes toward the aeroplane which can be safely and generally used.

Stipulating that it must outdistance anything on artificial wings at present in existence, Clifford B. Harmon, the aviator, has ordered a Wright biplane for delivery within the next sixty days. If the machine meets with the owner's expectations Mr. Harmon will go after the world's speed records in the air.

Count Zeppelin's airship which is to replace the recently destroyed Deutschland is already under course of construction. It is thought in Berlin, however, that the recent accident to the big rigid flying machine will frustrate the count's plans for an air passenger line during his life time as people will be timid about trusting themselves in a Zeppelin machine again.

BALLOONIST DEAD AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

Macomb, Ill., July 13.—R. G. Hurrugh, of Michigan, who fell from a trapeze while making a balloon ascension at a Fourth of July celebration at Bushnell is dead.

Hurrugh made the ascension from the center of the business section. The trapeze caught in a tree and was thrown loose.

AEROPLANES WILL RACE AROUND AND OVER N. Y.

New York, July 13.—Capt. Thomas Baldwin has accepted the challenge of Clifford B. Harmon, millionaire amateur aviator, for a race around Manhattan Island, starting from Governor's Island, flying over the four great bridges of the East river and thence to the Hudson and return. The race will be run in the near future.

DIRIGIBLE FARE FIXED AT $40.

Newport, R. I., July 13.—Plans for the dirigible passenger traffic between this city and Narragansett Pier have progressed so far that $40 has been announced as the per capita rate for the transportation of passengers one way. Stewart Davis, who is promoting the venture, is soon to begin trial flights with his dirigible in Rhode Island. If these flights are as successful as Mr. Davis thinks they will be, a company for the conduct of the passenger business will be formed and the Newport-Narragansett line be put in operation at once.

TO CROSS ATLANTIC IN BIG DIRIGIBLES.

New York, July 13.—Walter Wellman and Melvin Vaniman are planning a flight across the Atlantic ocean in the dirigible balloon, America, which was built for the Wellman polar expedition and has twice been tried in flights over the Arctic ocean; the flight will be attempted some time this fall.

The America will carry six passengers, including a wireless operator who will keep the world informed of the progress which is being made by the balloon from time to time. The dirigible is second only in size to Count Zeppelin's Deutchland which was destroyed some time ago.

WILL FLY AGAIN IF SHE RECOVERS

Rheims, France, July 13—"I'll fly again as soon as I can grasp a steering wheel." These were the first words uttered by the Baroness De La Roche, the daring sportswoman when she regained consciousness after her terrible accident here last week. The baroness is doing nicely at the hospital, and, it is thought, will recover. Her accident last week was her second within the past few months.

INCREASE CAPITAL IN SELLING OUT.

Cincinnati, O., July 11—The Anderson-Ziegler Amusement Co. has increased its capital from $750,000 to $775,000. The increase was made necessary when the concern sold out to the Cox Syndicate.

The Grand Opera House here is now a ten-cent vaudeville house; it formerly offered moving pictures only with an admission price of five cents. Ned Langer & Co., Bob Sperry, Turner & Glyndon, Zelma Rollas, Albert Ertz, and George Evers are supplying the first week's vaudeville bill. F. A. Raymond is managing the house and is booking independently.

Announcement is made by the Authors' Producing Company that the first play presented by that organization will be "The Gamblers," by Charles Klein. This play is Mr. Klein's latest, and will be produced under his personal direction in September.

Madame Tetrazzini has given out a statement in which she says she will not appear in opera in America next season, but is considering flattering concert offers, one being of $50,000 for a tour.

WILL AWARD PRIZES TO TREASURERS

Princess Amusement Company Grateful for Big Business.

Mort H. Singer, of the Princess Amusement Company, and the dramatic papers of Chicago have under advisement the awarding of three prizes to treasurers of theaters in which four of the big Singer musical shows played last season. Mr. Singer offered $100 to the treasurer of the theater playing to the biggest business with one of these attractions after February 1, 1910; $50 to the treasurer with the second largest house, and $25 to the treasurer with the third largest house. The population of the city and the seating capacity of the theater are to be taken into consideration in making the award.

Mr. Singer has supplied the several Chicago dramatic papers in Chicago with data from his statement books and has asked them to help in the adjudication. The award will be announced in the near future. Figures supplied by Mr. Singer indicate that the four shows in the contest, "The Goddess of Liberty," "The Prince of Tonight," "A Stubborn Cinderella" and "The Flirting Princess" did exceptionally fine business on the road.

MARGARET ILLINGTON'S PLAY FROM THE FRENCH

Margaret Illington, former wife of Daniel Frohman and now the spouse of Edward J. Bowes, of Tacoma, was in Chicago a few days ago en route from New York city to Tacoma, her husband's home. Miss Illington is about to return to the stage under the management and personal direction of her husband. Her new play is an adaptation from the French. The title has not been announced, but the play will be produced in Tacoma, Wash., August 28.

REAL TRAGEDY IN HAVANA THEATER.

Havana, Cuba, July 13.—During a performance at the Pairet theater here recently, a lady member of the audience was murdered, and two men were seriously wounded by pistol shots. The murderer was arrested just as he was about to commit suicide. The woman killed was the wife of the murderer who had been driven insane by jealousy.

ETHEL LEVY MARRIES NOTED FRENCH WHIP.

New York, July 13.—A letter received from Paris announces the marriage of Miss Ethel Levy, former wife of George M. Cohan, to Pierre Crepin, a well known professional whip of the French capital. They were married last October.

RECORD ELK CROWD ATTENDS AT DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., July 13.—The annual national convention of Elks in this city is said to have attracted the largest crowd of members of that organization, and their friends, which has ever assembled at a similar affair.

in which the goods are to be sold, and that space once secured should be retained. I am so strongly in favor of outdoor advertising that if I were compelled to choose but one medium I would select outdoor publicity.

"I recall an instance where I received a letter from a man who asked me if we could not change the colors we had adopted of red, green and white, claiming that he saw them so often they had burned themselves into his memory. I replied that we had spent three million dollars to impress it on his mind, and was glad to know we had accomplished our purpose.

Advertising Promotes Prosperity.

"The American nation has benefitted by its commercialism, and through its commercialism most benefitted by advertising, and through the education of publicity that it was pursuing it was making America the greatest of all nations. Even foreign countries are taking recognition of this fact, and as president of the Advertisers' Association I have received inquiries from various countries, one in particular from Odessa, Russia, asking my opinion upon advertising."

Mr. Dobbs was to attend the meeting of the Advertisers' Association, which is to be held in Omaha, Neb., Monday, July 18.

To Fight Tuberculosis.

At the last convention the billposters donated a million dollars' worth of space and services to the Anti-Tuberculosis society. Frank E. Fitch, the chairman of the billposters committee handling this branch, made a report that the Anti-Tuberculosis society was about ready to launch its campaign, and would utilize the assistance so generously tendered by the billposters.

Official Organ Dropped.

The Billposter and Distributor, heretofore the official organ of the billposters, was discontinued, owing to the objections raised to its handling by Editor McManus. The stock in the publication was owned by various members. A prominent billposter stated to a representative of The Show World that McManus had used the Billposter and Distributor for political purposes and had attacked unjustly members of the association. An indignation meeting of about 100 members was held, who petitioned the organiaztion to abandon the organ. This was done, and it was agreed to withdraw all support.

Take Ride On Lake.

A ride on the lake was taken on Wednesday evening, arrangements having been made with one of the lake steamers.

Jas. A. Curran, of the Denver Bill Posting Co., was accompanied by his eldest daughter. In the foyer of the Auditorium, Louis E. Cooke and Mr. Curran grew reminiscent, and it developed that Curran got his start in the bill posting business in Leadville, in the early eighties. The W. W. Cole show was contracted to play Leadville and there were no billboards. Mr. Cooke, the general agent, bought the lumber and gave it to Curran to put up, paying him fifty cents per running foot for it. After the show left town Curran kept the boards and inaugurated a bill posting plant on his own account. The next year he was in the bill posting business in Denver, and has become the big man of Colorado in the Rocky Mountain district.

L. H. Ramsey, of Lexington, Ky., was the sergeant at arms, and the most strenuous employment his office gave him seemed to be shaking hands with his many friends.

A. de Montluzen, manager of the U. S. Lithograph Co., was much in evidence in the convention hall and in the lobby. Arch Donaldson, of the Donaldson Lithograph Co., Newport, Ky., was also in attendance.

Mabel Taliaferro will appear next season in "The Little Mother," by Porter Emerson Browne.

YOUNG BUFFALO SHOW ENJOINED BY TWO BILLS

The Seaver Aggregation is Restrained from Using Billing Said to Mislead the Public—Col. Lavelle Leaves Show.

The Young Buffalo Wild West Show has been enjoined by the Ohio court from using the name or billing of "Young Buffalo," or from exploiting the likeness of Col. W. F. Lavelle under the name of "Young Buffalo." Lavelle has left the organization and is at present in Chicago. When interviewed by a Show World reporter he said:

"I regret very much that this unfortunate controversy has arisen, as it may have caused the amusement world to believe that I was endeavoring to encroach upon Col. Cody, which was not the case. When I went with the Young Buffalo show it was agreed that I was to be featured and billed under my own name. To my amusement, I found that I was billed as "Young Buffalo," and protested against this."

Col. Cody Firm.

Louis E. Cooke, general agent of the Two Bills show is making his headquarters at the Auditorium, and to a representative of The Show World said:

"It must not be assumed that animus has inspired the action of Col. Cody in securing a restraining order against the Young Buffalo show. He bears ill will against no man, but he does not propose to let anybody steal his thunder, nor sail under false colors.

"No shows will be molested by Col. Cody so long as they do not try to impersonate him and attempt to lead people to believe that Col. Cody is the feature of their show. The Young Buffalo show has been enjoined from using that title, or displaying lithographic paper, or in any manner implying that Col. Cody, or any relative of his is in any way connected with any exhibition other than the Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill Wild West and Far East.

"Col. Cody objects only to the fact that a person sailing under false colors is misleading the public. One thing he has prided himself on all these years is the fact that he has kept faith with the public.

Cody is Heroic Figure.

"It must be conceded that Col. Cody is today the greatest living single attraction in the amusement world. He is personally known to more people than any man that ever lived, presidents, ex-presidents, kings, and potentates not excepted. He has personally saluted more people than any man that has ever lived. Therefore, it is not to be wondered at that he should zealously guard his name, fame and reputation.

No Animosity Shown.

"You must understand that Col. Cody is not desirous of stopping the show, but he does insist that it sail under true colors. Under the ruling of the court they must destroy all printing that is in any way similar to our own."

Mr. Cooke further stated that the season of 1910 is breaking all records for the Two Bills show, and that the outlook for the fall would indicate that the best part of the season is yet to come. The Two Bills show will play the Pacific coast and Puget Sound country and will close about November 15, wintering at Trenton, N. J., at the state fair grounds.

"These quarters are the finest in the world," said Mr. Cooke; "the side tracks run right up to the gateway at the entrance, and we can pull the wagons right off the runways."

OPPOSITION BILLING IN LEAVENWORTH

Leavenworth, July 13.—The Barnum & Bailey Shows have posted paper here for their engagement in Kansas City July 25. Sells-Floto exhibits in this city July 21.

Split Price Is Popular.

"That the split price is undoubtedly a powerful factor in the success of the Sells-Floto shows this season cannot be gainsaid," said Ed. C. Warner, general traffic manager of the circus, at the Wellington hotel, Wednesday. "Our business all along the line has been phenomenal, the show playing to from $200 to $1,000 a day better in towns previously played at the fifty cent price."

The first actress to receive $200 per night was Mrs. John Gilbert, who played Lady Macbeth for Junius Brutus Booth's "Macbeth," in 1814.

SIGN IN KANSAS CITY ATTRACTS MUCH NOTICE.

Kansas City, Mo., July 12.—The electrical sign put up by the Thomas Cusack advertising company, exploiting the New Empress theater, is one of the most striking creations ever displayed in any city, and is causing much favorable comment. It was designed by Sam Dreyfus, the local advertising man, and extends across the street.

Robinson Visits Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, July 12.—John G. Robinson, proprietor of the Robinson 10 Big Shows, transacted business in Cincinnati today.

Frederick Warde, the tragedian, who has not appeared on the stage for five years, will appear next season in a special version of Shakespeare's "Timon of Athens."

"STICK" DAVENPORT.

Noted circus rider, who joins the Sells-Floto circus at Kansas City, Monday, July 18.

NOTES FROM THE JOHN ROBINSON 10 BIG SHOWS.

Belleville, Ill., July 5.—Landed in a rain, but the weather cleared up and business was great. William Dee Mott is covering himself with laurels as equestrian director during the absence of Fred Fisher, who has gone to Cincinnati for a rest.

Murphreesboro, July 6.—Lot out of the corporation, but the city officials insisted upon a license before we could parade. Business good and the weather hot. Miss Nell Smith ("Wild Nell") joined the wild west department.

Benton, July 7.—People had been coming to town for two days, and old inhabitants say the largest crowd ever in town. Oh, what a business. John G. Robinson has gone to Cincinnati to make some railroad contracts.

Centralia, July 8.—In town early, up early, early parade and a big business.

Vandalia, July 9.—Mrs. John G. Robinson and John the Fourth still running the show. Big crowd in town and good business, but the lightest day of the week.

Business during the past week has been great. At Litchfield, July 4, we closed the ticket wagon at five minutes past two and at night business was equally as good. The LaMar Trio, aerialists, joined at Litchfield.

Waukegan Has Strong Bill.

The Waukegan, "theater beautiful," opened July 4, booked by Paul Goudron of the Sullivan & Considine offices, managed by William Haas. The estimated cost of the new house is $24,000. It has a seating capacity of 700, and is up-to-date in every respect. The opening bill was composed of the following acts: Miss Jessie Edwards, Bobbie Rankin, Owen & Hoffman and Rivoli.

NORMA DAVENPORT.

One of the most famous equestriennes of the arenic world is Norma Davenport, who with her husband, "Stick," will join the Sells-Floto circus.

LA SALLE THEATER STORMED BY ASKIN

Long Battle for Possession Develops Sensational Features.

The LaSalle theater in Chicago, for a long time the bone of bitter contention between Harry Askin and Mort H. Singer, representing their respective companies, has fallen before the determined onslaughts of Mr. Askin. Last Sunday morning a force of seventy-five municipal court custodians swooped down upon the place on Madison street where Mr. Singer had a force of guards on duty, and took possession. The Singer guards were out at the time and the two colored porters and five scrub women who were found in the house didn't give battle; they left without protest when requested to do so. All three entrances to the building were found open, it is said.

The summary action of the Askin forces was taken only after the appellate court had dissolved an injunction restraining Mr. Askin from taking possession of the theater and after Mr. Singer had applied for a stay which would enable him to take the case to superior court. Throughout any legal contention which may follow. Mr. Askin will appear more advantageously, he thinks, as the person in possession of the property.

The descent upon the theater Sunday morning was adroitly planned and executed. The seventy-five Askin men sprang up almost as if by magic, just as the clock struck 8. At two minutes after 8, with the raiding party in control, a wagon load of lumber and a force of carpenters reached the place and soon every entrance to the building was barricaded. Now Askin retainers are in the house every minute of every day and none but those employed there are permitted to enter. Edward J. McArdle, Esq., of the firm of McArdle & McArdle, said Sunday afternoon that he had had no advance knowledge as to what was going to be done at the LaSalle. Mr. Askin was said to be out of the city and Charles Webb-Murphy, vice-president of the theatrical company headed by Mr. Askin, declined to make any statement. One Harry Hopkins, unknown in the show business, was in charge of the Askin attacking party and said he had been left in charge by Frank Malarky, another person who could not be found.

Following their descent upon the place the Askin men removed all the property of Mr. Singer and the Schlessinger brothers from the theater to a storeroom nearby. The Schelessinger brothers had the house from Mr. Singer for use during the summer as a vaudeville theater. Performers who had been playing the house had their effects in the dressing rooms and these were delivered to them from the storeroom when they gave receipts for them.

Mr. Askin has secured possession of the LaSalle only after a hard fight which, the Singer people claim, is not yet over. It is the plan of the new controlling company to rechristen the place the LaSalle Opera House and to remodel it for use as a producing place for Askin musical plays. Carpenters and decorators are already at work on improvements, which are to be completed by August 15. An incline is to replace the stairway leading into the auditorium and all of the dressing rooms are to be placed under the stage, in this way making the stage large enough for big productions.

Present plans are for the opening of the house about August 15. The play will be a new musical whirl called "The Sweetest Girl in Paris," with book and lyrics by Addison Burkhardt and Collin Davis and music by Joseph E. Howard. Gus Sohlke has been engaged to direct the staging of the new play. John E. Young, the well known comedian, who starred in "Lo" last season, has been engaged for the principal comedy role in the new play.

GEORGE CHENNELL.

Retiring president of the Associated Bill Posters and Distributors of the United States and Canada, after two terms of able executive management. Mr. Chennell was not a candidate for re-election at the convention held this week.

ROBINSON SHOWS DO WELL AT LITCHFIELD

Litchfield, Ill., July 13.—The John Robinson Shows, upon the occasion of their recent engagement here, played to turn-away audiences, indicating that this city is one of the best in the country for tent aggregations. At the matinee performance hundreds of people who were willing to pay almost any price of admission were turned away. At night additional seats were placed in the big top. The Robinson shows are well liked here because of the kind of performance they give and because of the courteous treatment they have accorded the public on previous visits.

AN IMPORTANT LETTER AWAITS H. G. LONSDALE.

The postmaster at Chicago has notified The Show World that there is an important letter at the general delivery for H. Gittus Lonsdale, from E. M. Cooper, San Francisco. As Mr. Lonsdale's address is not in the Chicago directory the letter was undelivered, and Mr. Cooper has written the postal authorities to endeavor to locate him.

ED. C. WARNER AND A. H. BARKLEY.

On the right is A. H. Barkley, who has been acting as general agent for the Campbell Brothers circus, and who has joined the Sells-Floto advance forces as assistant to Ed. C. Warner, general traffic manager.

NEW TROTTING MARK SET IN CLEVELAND.

Cleveland, O., July 13—Uhlan, the son of Bingen, 2.06¼, set a new world's record at the North Randall Grand Circuit track this afternoon. The gelding was driven by C. K. G. Billings, who last Fall paid $35,000 for him. The previous record, 2.03¾, was made by Major Delmar in 1903.

A great crowd was in attendance, Uhlan's performance being made at the regular weekly matinee races of the Gentlemen's Driving Club.

Uhlan stepped the first quarter in 32 seconds, the half in 1.02, the third quarter in 31 seconds and the last quarter in 29¾ seconds.

Willie Hart, of the well-known vaudeville team of Willie & Edith Hart, died at Clementon, N. Y., on Wednesday, June 29. His father, mother and three sisters survive him.

Maude Adams may give in New York an elaborate, open-air performance of "Joan of Arc," such as she gave last year at Harvard University.

PLAYWRIGHT BARRIE TO MARRY AGAIN

London, July 13.—It is reported that J. M. Barrie, author and playwright, is about to marry Dorothy Eugenie Brett, the elder of the two daughters of Lord Esher. Mr. Barrie is fifty years old; Miss Brett is twenty-seven.

J. M. Barrie, author of "What Every Woman Knows," "Peter Pan," and other plays which have been successful in England and America, was divorced from his first wife, Mary Ansell, an actress, only last October.

CHINESE THEATER REOPENS IN NEW YORK

New York, July 13—The Chinese theater in Doyer street is open once more after a period of six months which was given over to moving pictures and other inartistic diversions. "The Strong Man from Quong Dong" was the reopening bill. The theater closed some time ago when a tong war was raging in Chinatown and audiences and actors proved hard to find.

DRAMATIC EDITOR LEAVES INTER-OCEAN.

Charles W. Collins, who has for several years been the dramatic editor of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, has severed his connection with that paper. Rumor has it that Robert R. Clark, now assistant city editor will have the berth made vacant by the retirement of Mr. Collins.

Herbert C. Duce, manager of the Garrick and Lyric theaters, and western representative of the Shuberts, will go to New York next week on a business trip. J. T. Henderson, owner of a string of theaters, will go with him, and it is rumored that Henderson and F. Ray Comstock will fix up some sort of a deal whereby they will consolidate their theaters into one circuit.

Patrick F. Ludwig, of the Garrick forces, has returned from the middle of the state, where he went to look after F. Ray Comstock's theaters in Springfield, Urbana and Danville.

Charles McCuen, who was formerly with the Shuberts and managed their house in Des Moines, Iowa, will leave for New York next week, where he will take a position in advance of one of Henry W. Savage's companies.

"Chet" Hughston, the genial assistan treasurer of the Grand Opera House, has returned from Fifield, Wis., where he has been on a fishing tour. He brought back with him a nice coat of tan, and some whopping fish yarns.

HENRY W. SAVAGE WITHDRAWS FROM TRUST.

New York, July 13.—Henry W. Savage issued a formal statement yesterday announcing his withdrawal from the theatrical syndicate. The statement says:

"I have definitely and absolutely severed all connection with the theatrical syndicate and my attractions will not appear in any house owned or controlled by that organization.

"My reason for this radical step is because I claim the privilege of offering my goods in the places that seem best suited to my interests and those of the public at large.

The Agent Who Looked Like a Loser But Breezed Home in Front—Walked Right Out Again.

By FRANCIS OWEN of Owen & Hoffman

Once upon a TIME there was an AGENT who booked a house for A. TIGHTWAD at UMPTA. TIGHTWAD only played a single and a double, but made more fuss about it than SOME MANAGERS with a string of HOUSES as long as the TAIL of HALLEY'S COMET. Whenever he heard of MRS. PAT CAMPBELL, RICHARD CARLE, or other Headliners playing the CITY, he wanted to know why HE didn't get get EM, when he paid FORTY single, and EIGHTY double. The AGENT wanted the house for a long JUMP BREAKER, and as TIGHTWAD was threatening to leave him, he sent for him to come in, and have a good time at HIS expense, WHILE they talked it over. In the MEANTIME, he fixed it with some good ACTOR friends of his to impersonate some CELEBRITIES, and meet HE and A CERTAIN PARTY at a particular PLACE. TIGHTWAD arrived, WHISKERS and all, and the AGENT took him out to DINNER, first buying him four or five HIGHBALLS. Then he told him that as he wanted HEADLINERS, he had arranged for TIGHTWAD to meet them Himself, and see what he could do in the way of BOOKING. The HIGHBALLS had begun to affect the MANAGER'S SYSTEM, by this time, and he told the AGENT he loved him like a BROTHER, was going to have a HIGH OLD TIME, and wanted to get out and see the SIGHTS. The AGENT said "VERY well, we will go over to the SARATOGA," and they started out, ARM in ARM, and TIGHTWAD still keeping the YALE lock snapped SHUT on his POCKET book. When the two arrived at the PARTICULAR place, about four hours later, the MANAGER was WALKING like the STRAW man in the WIZARD of OZ, and was so far gone he was buying a drink HIMSELF. The AGENT signalled for the HEADLINERS to appear, and TIGHTWAD was introduced in turn to Mrs. PAT CAMPBELL, EVA TANGUAY, VESTA VICTORIA, LOCKHARTS ELEPHANTS, SEVENTEEN GIRLS in PINK, GEORGE COHAN, ELBERT HUBBARD and other famous ones too numerous to mention. He signed CONTRACTS with them all, WALTZED with Mrs. Pat, and asked Mr. HUBBARD to JIG a few DIDOES. They put him on a TABLE and he made a speech in which he said—"LADIES and GEMMON, (Great Cheering) WE ARE, YESH, I'M SHURE WE ARE"—(Renewed Cheering). The AGENT said THAT was certainly a great SPEECH, but as he was going to show TIGHTWAD the MASONIC TEMPLE TURNING AROUND, they would have to excuse him. TIGHTWAD said the BAR was going 'round fast enough for him, and offered GEORGE COHAN a nickle to make him him LAUGH. He told them his HOUSE was a hard one to please, but he had GOOD SCENERY to help them out, that they all could BOARD with him, and his wife would SCRUB the PINK ELEPHANTS and try to make their VISIT a PLEASANT one. They all took ANOTHER drink on TIGHTWAD, and the AGENT threw him on a TRAIN like a BUNDLE OF RAGS. Next morning he woke up with his head so big the conductor wanted to charge HIM TWO fares. But he forgot the BUZZING when he pulled out a BUSHEL of CONTRACTS, and looked at the SALARY list. It ran over $6,000 for THREE days, and the ELEPHANT man had inserted a clause in HIS, that TIGHTWAD was to feed the ELEPHANTS all the CLUB SANDWICHES they could eat. COHAN'S contract called for an ORCHESTRA of FORTY-FIVE pieces, and HUBBARD'S DRESSING ROOM was to be supplied with a BATH TUB, ELECTRIC FANS, and two GOLD fountain pens. When the LOCAL pulled into his town MONDAY, that always brought the DOUBLE and SINGLE, TIGHTWAD hid behind a pile of LUMBER, waiting to see the BIG BUNCH—ELEPHANTS and all—unload. He nearly fainted with JOY when they failed to arrive, and wired the AGENT to cancel them, and send him some LONG HAIRED INDIANS or GOOD COMICS. The AGENT wrote him a CURT reply, in which he said it would be hard work to keep the HEADLINERS from sueing, but if TIGHTWAD would promise to be GOOD, he would fix it—otherwise he would send down the ELEPHANTS to eat him out of HOUSE and HOME.

INSURANCE FOR SUMMER PARKS

The Amusement Indemnity Exchange, an interinsurance organization among amusement resorts all over the United States, has been formed with St. Louis as its headquarters, and George Dodson as its attorney and manager. Mr. Dodson is an underwriter in charge of the bonding department of the Insurance Agency Company of St. Louis. The company concerns itself only with amusement parks and insures only against fire losses.

Mr. Dodson has made a special study of this class of risks. It is the intention of the new exchange to make three careful inspections of each park every year, and no risk is to be accepted that does not satisfy a competent electrical and general inspection. The exchange began business July 1.

BROADHURST PLAYLET AT THE MAJESTIC

Edward Abeles, with his company in "Self Defense," the intensely interesting George Broadhurst playlet, is to head the bill at the Majestic theater, Chicago, next week. Mr. Abeles and company pleased Windy City vaudeville patrons with the same sketch last season.

Winona Winter, popular comedienne; J. Onaip, with his Hindoo illusion of "the Piano and the Piano Player"; Jarrow, trickster and humorist; Hal Stephens & Co in a comedy sketch; Leona Pam, in a new act; Hedges Brothers & Jackson, instrumentalists and singers; the Robert DeMont Trio, and DeCamo & Onzo, acrobats, are other performers who will appear.

PETITION AGAINST NEGRO AIRDOME

Kansas City, Kansas, July 11.—The Optic Amusement Company has an airdome at Independence avenue and Charlotte that is operated and patronized by negroes. It is claimed by the residents of this neighborhood that the airdome is the noisiest thing in the city. A petition has been presented to the mayor to close it.

FIELD DAY FOR ACTORS' FUND

New York, July 13.—A field day in aid of the Actors' Fund of America is being promoted by Cohan & Harris for August 19 at the Polo Grounds. A medieval tournament like the one described in "Ivanhoe" is planned. One baseball game between actors and managers and another between prima donnas and soubrettes will be features.

ROUTE HAPPENINGS WITH SELLS-FLOTO

First Serious Accident of the Season Took Place Near Pueblo.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Mon., July 4.—A dandy town to Sunday in, and most of the folks took advantage of the fine opportunity for sight seeing. Many visited Manitou, "the Garden of the Gods," Pike's Peak, and Stratton Park. The Colorado Midland band, an exceptionally talented organization under direction of H. T. Irvine, is playing at the park, and all the music-lovers with the show enoyed two of their concerts. Frank Tammen, ex-manager of the show, his daughter, Miss Agnes, and Col. Robinson, who was with us for several seasons, were among the visitors. Mr. Tammen is proprietor of the Majestic theater here and the colonel is his right hand man.

The big fight went the wrong way for nearly every one with the show, and consequently the boys are all cross tonight. Very little money exchanged hands, as there was no Johnson money in sight.

Pueblo, Colo., Tues., July 5.—Lot in the ball park, just four blocks from the main street, and only one block from the runs. Weather threatening, and it rained a little about noon. Afternoon business big, and a packed tent looked good at night. All hands stayed on the lot and loaded the other show quickly, as we have a 97-mile run tonight. First section left at 1:10. Several of Sells-Floto's "best men" missed and some rode the flats on second section. The first serious accident this season occurred just after leaving town. A candy butcher, Jack Irwin by name, attempted to walk along the flats and as he was stepping from one to the other lost his footing, fell between the cars and was crushed to death. His home is in St. Louis, but very little is known of him, as he only joined a few weeks ago.

Trinidad, Colo., Wed., July 6.—First section in at 6:30; second, an hour later. Railroad lot and everything up in time. Parade did not leave the lot until 12:30, more to give the horses rest than for any other reason. Business big at both performances. Newspapers gave us excellent notices in Pueblo and Trinidad, which looks nice for Press Agent Purcell. Short haul, and we are moving before 12 o'clock.

La Junta, Colo., Thurs., July 7.—Town went dry last spring, and it certainly looked dead this morning, but we were agreeably surprised to see two very good houses. Gilbertson sold plenty of lemonade, as the weather was terribly hot. Thermometer registered 109 degrees in the shade. A long run tonight (154 miles) necessitated a hurry-up show, and we have them one in an hour and seventeen minutes. Loaded and left town shortly after 11.

Garden City, Kan., Fri., July 8.—Did not arrive until 9:20 this morning, owing to a passenger train spreading a rail just ahead of us, delaying our train three hours and fifteen minutes. However, the haul was short, and lot easy for stakes, so we paraded at 12:30 and began the afternoon show at 2:20. Chautauqua is in session and quite a crowd of strangers are in town. This gave us a big afternoon business. We are fortunate to be here one day after a bad rain and wind storm, which would have been disastrous, no doubt. A nice cool breeze blew all day, making it quite comfortable, compared to yesterday's intense heat. Night business exceptionally good, considering the size of the town.

Dodge City, Kan., Sat., July 9.—Railroad lot, runs one block, and everything ready on time. Business fair at both performances. Nothing happened worthy of note, except Geo. Stumpf, boss hostler, and Hattie Lewis closed. Fred Ledgett and Dollie Julian were to close, but Col. Franklin wouldn't let them go. Dollie is some rider.

The run to Hutchinson (134 miles) was made before 6 a. m. The big show band is out for a "mulligan stein" today (Sunday). They generally have a fine time on all outings, so this will be no exception.—Stewart.

CONCESSIONAIRES SHORT AT QUINCY FAIR

Quincy, Ill., July 13.—Two concessionaires with the Wartham-Allen United Shows, appearing here last week, engaged in hot words and gun play which landed them both in the police court. One concessionaire, who gave the name of Smith, accused the other, called Jones, of disrupting his family. Smith failed to substantiate his words and, for indiscriminate gun play, was fined $32.50 in police court; Jones was discharged.

The Wartham shows were here under the auspices of the local baseball association and did only fair business, partly on account of bad weather and partly because of the unfortunate affair between the concessionaires which took place on Friday. The company is showing in Hannibal, Mo., this week and goes to Moberly, Mo., for the week of July 17.

The Fifth Illinois Regiment Band played at Highland Park last week and pleased. This week the May Butler Grand Concert Band is the attraction.

The Ringling Brothers' circus is to exhibit at Baldwin Park August 8. The Short-ship circuit races are to begin at the same park on July 26 and will last for four days.—Schoeneman.

CIRCUS FOLLOWER HELD FOR THEFT

Canton, O., July 11.—James Starkey, charged with snatching a silver watch out of the hands of John Boyle, West Tuscarawas street optician, recently, was given a hearing before Judge Quinn. After the testimony the judge decided to hold Starkey for further investigation.

Starkey protested his innocence, claiming that Boyle dropped the watch and he attempted to pick it up for him. He is a follower of the Barnum & Bailey circus.

SELLS-FLOTO STRIKES RUN OF POOR BUSINESS.

WICHITA, Kas., July 12—Reliable reports from the Sells-Floto shows regarding their advent in the east so far are that business has been very bad. At Garden City the attendance was practically nothing and Dodge City worse. At Hutchinson there was a fair matinee and the night show was abandoned on account of a severe storm. It is said that Manager Franklin predicted that the show would not do much business in this territory, and it would appear that his prognostigation is correct.

The Ringling opposition against the Sells-Floto show is the fiercest this aggregation has encountered in the last five years.

Charles Frohman is planning a dramatic festival for London at the time of King George's coronation. This performance will be given with a company of American star actors.

ROBBINS' SHOWS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Corry, Pa., July 12.—Frank A. Robbins' circus comes into northwestern Pennsylvania this month for the first time in years. Robbins is particularly well known in this town, for he was here a month last winter, listing the property of the Cole Brothers' circus for the sale conducted by Fiss, Doerr and Carroll of New York.

The circus is said to carry fifteen cars, and is booked in Erie, Union City, Corry and Franklin. Billing car No. 1, in charge of Charles A. Chapman, was here on Saturday. Mr. Chapman's wife is the show's contracting press agent.

BILLPOSTERS ON PICNIC ON 4TH.

The John Robinson advance car No. 3 was in Charleston, Ill., on July 4 and the crew enjoyed a holiday there on the day we celebrate. A special street car took them from Charleston to Funk's Park where they spent the day in fishing, crabbing, and playing baseball. The car's roster is as follows: W. M. Dale, car manager; W. Chapman, boss billposter; J. Hanley, B. Miller, H. Wallace, W. Gary, R. Wheelock, W. Cuff, E. Weistam, C. Stagden, W. M. Maerf, C. Kern, and F. Miller.

DOC. WADDELL REVIEW OF EVENT

Uniform Circus License will Triumph in Spite of all Opposition Because It's Fair, Just, and Equitable.

Columbus, Ohio, July 14.—The question of uniform license will not down. The agitation is on brisker than ever. A key note has been sounded and now the battle rages. Municipalities are taking notice and lining up for action. Members of state legislatures are discussing it among themselves. The "powers that be" at Washinyton are just receiving notification on the outer rim of the ear. All this means something. If I were going to place a bet on the issue I'd wager that uniform license will carry the day. My old friend, A. G. Allen, writes more about license thany any one else. I take it he is the good old veteran of circus fame, the partner or that prince. George Quine, who with Mr. Allen, operates darkey minstrels under canvas. In the last issue of "Old Billy Boy" Mr. Allen (I came near calling him "Reverend" Allen, for they tell me he did one day preach real gospel) took nigh unto three columns, small type, arguing circus license and pleading for subscriptions to a fund to assist him in contesting a test case pending in the Louisiana courts. He admits he is receiving little assistance—to date $30 has reached him. Among those—three people only—aiding him is not one of the big tent owners. If Mr. Allen will give thought to the query "why?" he'll know the exact reason. I doubt if Mr. Allen has the "handwrite" of any big owner approving his course. The query "why?' again bobs up and answered, gives a fact which is unquestioned evidence favorable to uniform license. It must be admitted that if the system of circus license were right there would be no kicks coming, and if right it would be uniform; and if right and uniform it would be just. Mr. Allen in his epistle says: "My attorneys seem confident we shall win." The doubt here expressed is argumcnt against his contention.

Barnum Spirit Approves.

He wonders why show people do not organize as a unit to down license collection altogether. His own words give answer when he alludes to the profession as "a progressive and aggressive body of business men." The most progressive and aggressive among us are for licensc and they desire it uniform. He alludes to the military commanders of Europe following the Barnum show in order to learn about discipline and system, and he might have added that, should we as a whole follow the precepts and policy of the late P. T. Barnum, the uniform license would prevail. Barnum never favored antagonizing nation, state, or municipality; he believed firmly in construction, not destruction, and invariably looked to the proposition of the future with this text: I'm coming again some day, there are others and others there will be when I'm dead and away." Really, Mr. Allen, if each one of us would only get at our own doorstep and get it right we could then come into the open and accomplish much that we do not. That damnable selfishness is about us in chunks and some of us it rules completely. Another thing: I cannot see what is gained in continually harping about Bonfils and Tammen, of Denver. To get the right dope on any person get it from some one who really knows the person. When you do this it generally turns out that the person talked about is all right. I know this, the Denver, people have sounded a key-note as to circus license. I believe the agitation will bring us into the true light on the subject. I know that the uniform license would not hurt the small show, such as Mr. Allen is interested in, and I am satisfied it would prepare the way to a perpetuation of the circus business. Increasing the cars of the circus train has not helped the business. A great string of elephants on the street in parade require more cars, but who will admit it aids the circus business as to profit and perpetuation. "Governor" Jack Robinson told me once: "Just think of it! Forty elephants in parade! This is not circus; it is reckless. Not saying anything of the cost of feed, transportation and care, if one of them should stampede the whole d——n bunch would join in and the damage would be frightful. I carry eight, sometimes ten, and I have it all figured out that if they stampede I can afford to pay the damage. No wonder the circus license is zig-zag; high here and down there. Forty elephants are enough to turn any city council toward the elevated regions of license."

No Question as to Right.

Mr. Allen evidently would fail as a lawyer. If he will take the troube to interrogate, not great attorneys, but the ordinary students of the law schools he will get right on the United States Constitution and especially the Fourteenth Amendment. It is a well known and established fact that the right exists in law, by constitution and statute, to fix a license on travelling amusement exhibitions under canvas where an admission fee is charged and it is not for charity or the benefit thereof. If. Mr. Allen is desirous of a "getting together" and harmoniously proceeding, he should not charge those who are working for a just settlement of the question with things foreign to the real issue. The Denver people have a right to their opinion in the matter. The Ringling Brothers, Ben Wallace and others have the same vested right. The agitation is on and when the end comes I am satisfied uniform license will have won. Neither side will have established their respective ideas as a whole on the pinnacle of the new license structure, but enough of each will be there to total the uniform system. It occurs to me that if the owners of the big shows would permit the legal adjusters of the circus world, like George Steele, Chas. Andress, Charley Thompson, and John Talbot, to have a say that would be free of the pull of wire and influence we would come into possession of a story of license which would bring the just result. The trouble is, as a prominent adjuster said to me the other day: "I dare not say much. If I fail to side with the big guns they would fire me." And so it is, honest thought is smothered. I like to retire at night and know I am "one"—that I am a full and complete part of the census. The hairs of my head are mine, all mine; no other person owns a single hair. I may be wrong, but I believe if all in the circus business would stand up for uniform license by their honest thoughts and express them the uniform license system would be established everywhere.

Colts Named Circus Kings.

George W. West, known in the circus and park world, is one of "Joe" Dusenberry's most trusted men at Olentanay Park just north of the city. I visited him at his home in this city and got a picture of his twin colts. The mother was once the property of the late Sells Brothers and is the nag on which Willie Sells learned to ride. The twins are lively, growing and thriving. Mr. West accepted my suggestion to name them "Governor" after John F. Robinson, the dean of the circus profession, and "Napoleon" in honor of H. H. Tammen, the warring element with the Sells-Floto circus.

Colts Named "Governor" and "Napoleon" for John F. Robinson and H. H. Tammen, Dean and Warring Element in Circusdom.

Reminiscent of Faust Minstrels.

Ted Faust, head of the once famous Faust Family of Australian acrobats, accompanied by his brother, Eugene, are at home after a busy session in vaudeville. Ted has control of the Lewellen hotel, a haven for the "profesh." This property is owned by Dr. Hartman, of Peruna fame. On its site the doctor proposes to build a big modern hotel and theater. Tearing down will soon commence. He has taken care of the Faust Family and will give them the Hucking House on West State street. Writing of Ted and Eugene Faust recalls the Faust Minstrels that I piloted over the country for two full seasons. I often wonder of "Vic" Faust. Where is he? What is he doing, I ran into Bob Fisher, who was principal tenor for the Faust Minstrels. Columbus is Bob's home. The quartet with the minstrels comprised Bob Fisher, Clen DeBruin, Nick Marks, and George Cunningham. The latter is dead. He was certainly a comrade right. His place was finally taken by Harry Herbert, of this city. Mr. Fisher thinks he is dead. His friends know nothing of him. Do you? Who does? After the minstrel tour and a trip in vaudeville the quartet disbanded. Bob Fisher joined Harry Fielding and his daughter Pauline in vaudeville; the act was billed "Fielding & Fisher, assisted by Harry Fielding." Here I propose to give the secret away. Mr. Fisher and Miss Fielding will wed the last of next month and then will, no doubt, put on a sketch of their own. Clen DeBruin was one of the greatest mixers I ever knew. When we arrived in town with the minstrels he'd begin to circulate and would know and be in with the best people before the ticket office opened in the evening. This brought us patronage. He is now singing at the Iroquois hotel, Atlantic City, and spends his winters at his home place, Winchester, Ohio. Nick Marks is of the firm, Gordon & Marks, German comedians. He was the smallest part of the minstrels in stature, but one of the gigantic parts when it came to heart and talent and hustle. He is deserving.

Freddie Myers High-Flyer.

I have word from Monreal, Canada, that the big arishiip, "Joe Hooker," with which Cromwell Dixon, youngest aeronaut of the world, flies the upper currents, exploded and is a total wreck. The explosion occurred just as he was leaving the earth. Had it been in mid-air young Dixon would be in the widowless palace of rest. He now has an aeroplane and is flying it in Toronto. His address is Box "263," Weston, Ontario. When at Chillicothe, Ohio, recently the "Joe Hooker" got away from terra firma ahead of time and took skyward a boy, named Freddie Myers, aged 10 years. Those who witnessed never thought the lad would live to tell the story. He did and stands today—if only a kid—with the name of having outdone all other aeronauts as to height. He went out of sight and came down six miles from where he started.

Clint Kerr Back in Business.

Clint Kerr is back in the show business. In former days he was legal adjuster and press agent for the late Harris Nickel Plate Circus. Quitting the "white tops" he became advertising manager for the Dayton, Ohio, Herald, and made more than good. He has the Jewel Musical Comedy Company at Indianola Park. The crowds are headed that way; their business is immense. It looks like they would keep the good work up all summer. I have been to Indianola Park theater every week and never before was there such a hustle for admission. The reason: Kerr knows how to advertise and work up the public. And moreover, Indianola Park now has a real press agent. Guess who? Charley Rife, who in days gone by did great stunts for Sells Brothers and Walter Main as story writer and advertising manager. Rife, at White Plains, N. Y., when with Walter Main, contracted with the papers of that place and completely shut out the Ringling Brothers. So iron clad were the contracts that Ringlings could not get a single line—not a syllable or a word—in any White Plains paper. Oh, yes, with the Jewel Company as leading comedian is Arthur Nash, who shone in the arena of the Walter Main circus. I tell you, you find circus folk everywhere—some are in jail. And this reminds me. In a certain state's prison is one of a famed acrobatic group. I have talked with him. One night he got intoxicated, fell in with a bad bunch, $5,000 worth of silk was stolen, he was captured with the goods on him and that settled him for seven years. He is serving time under an assumed name. I am working to get him out and I am going to succeed.

IN THE WORLD OF THE WHITE TOP

Newark Lynching Involved People Known in the Sawdust Arena—Ethrington Once with Robinson—Howard a Trouble Maker.

Cullings at Random of Interest to Tent Followers—What Old Circus People You and I Know Are Doing Now.

the Massillon Show Print Company and later doing soliciting for a Detroit show print house, is with Gus Lambrigger, in the capacity of general agent and story writer. Lambrigger's Wild Animal Show opened the season here and put in about a month to fair business. From here it went to Mt. Vernon, Ohio, and then headed west. The last I heard from it was at Elwood, Ind. Lew Williams is still the show's boss canvasman. Clyde Phillips is head animal man, and John Laughlin is his assistant. In addition to a big snake and the usual collection of birds and monkeys, the show has a chimpanzee and an orangoutang as features. William Bell, who was chief orator and ticket-seller for the outfit, recently quit and took the management of the Japanese Bazaar at Buckeye Lake east of here. He is doing nicely and the other night did nicer than that by putting one over on all his friends. He married Miss Minnie Bollwine, the charming daughter of E. Bollwine, a cement pavement contractor of Newark, Ohio. The Show World, all its readers, and every one of the profession wish the happy couple smooth sailing on the matrimonial honeymoon and the rest of the voyage.

Circus People in Newark Riot.

Newark, Ohio, home of the late Ben Lusbie, who in his day was with the big Barnum Show as the lightning ticket seller of the world (and he was—never had an equal) voted "dry" and instead of the saloons quitting, the most of them kept open for business. Last Friday the anti-saloon league sent a squad of detectives to Newark to raid the places open in defiance of law and order. As a result the saloon element resisted and a bloody fight ensued. William Howard, a saloonkeeper and ex-policeman, was shot and killed by Carl Ethrington, a detective. The latter was arrested and placed in jail. A mob formed and that night battered down the doors of the prison, got to Ethrington, dragged him to a telephone pole, hit him in the head with a sledge, and then hung him to the pole. Ethrington was a Kentuckian and was certainly dead game. When he heard the mob battering the jail doors he wrapped himself in his bedclothes and set fire to them figuring he'd rather be burned to death than hanged by a mob. The man Howard, shot by Ethrington, when on the police force, was a trouble maker for circus people when they visited Newark. Ethrington, the victim of the mob, was at one time with the John Robinson circus. And the world wags on, mute seemingly to all, and each and all are blind to how and when the last summons will come. This we know: The power that gave us birth is just and evens up every score; it pays to be kind and good and ready for the eternal end of seasons all.

From Irrepressible Ike Potts.

I have on file a letter from the irrepressible "Ike" Potts, who did the labor ahead for Colonel John W. Vogel's minstrels for so many moons. "Ike" is married now. His wife was a sister of the late John W. Fisher, who died at Battle Creek, Mich., July 2. The deceased will be remembered by all circus people. He kept a livery stable at Battle Creek and furnished the teams to circus billers for country work. John W. Fisher was a noble scout. Bless his name and memory. Mr and Mrs. Potts had planned a fishing trip to Gull Lake, but the death suspended all pleasure. "Ike" says: "I was last season agent of Al W. Martin's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company and William Kibble is a prince to work for. I am in business for myself this summer and doing well. The Two Bills' show will be in Battle Creek July 15. We had the Wallace show last month to good business. I saw the Wallace show in Detroit, May 30 and they broke all records for business in the history of the show. The season at the Post theater, Battle Creek, opened July 10 with the Keith Stock Company, one of the best hooked-up shows I have seen in some time." I will add to this contribution: "All hail the inimitable Isaac Potts, now and until further notice, Deputy Supreme Organizer of The Order of the Moose, Clifton House, Battle Creek, Michigan." The motto of the order goes right home to people of every business and calling. Let all showmen memorize and often repeat it: "He that loveth his brother abideth in the light; but he that hateth his brother abideth in the darkness."

Colonial to Play Independents.

Manager Howell, of the Colonial theater, closed his house for the rest of the summer Saturday night. He will visit in Cincinnati, Toledo, and other places and then go east. He states positively that he will play the independent attractions the coming season, and says he has contracts up to February. Manager Boda, of the Southern theater here, is in New York. Ira Miller, of the Grand, will be in New York and vicinity for several weeks.

Notes About People.

Raymond Zirkel and Clarence Metcalf, of this city, have written a one-act operatta entitled "The Naiad." They say it is to be given a hearing in Chicago and the hearing will be this week. The scenery was made by Armbruster, of Columbus, and Saturday it was set up on the Keith stage to try the effect.

Ed. Veazey, known as "Smith" Veazey, is spending some time here. He is undecided whether to take the management of a theater on the Sun-Murray circuit or the Sullivan-Considine system. He was with the former last year and the chances are he will try the latter this coming season.

Colonel J. W. Pickens, of Zanesville, is in the city; he conferred with Al G. Field. To me he was very mum as to next season. I understand he will be in advance of either the Field or Doekstader minstrels.

W. W. Downing, who in the palmy days was close to the throne of the late Jack Haverly, will be with Herbert Mack the coming season doing advance work. Downing lives here.

Jim Murphy, former showman and known to all circus people, is in charge of one of the swellest cafes at Chillicothe, Ohio.

"Doc" Blair, the colored valet who has been with Al. F. Field for 20 years, will make the trip with Uncle Al the coming season. "Jess" Elwood, known as "Old Yellow," formerly car porter for Field's minstrels, in now porter at the Olentangy Park theater for the Stubbs-Wilson players. Elwood mortgaged a lot he owned in Marion, and bet it on Johnson to win against Jeffries. Shrewd, lucky, euss.

Just as I finished the above paragraph an automobile anchored at my door. The head-push of the craft was Ted Galbraith, of New Philadelphia, Ohio. He has signed to be business manager in advance for the Bogel Minstrels. He did this position last season to a nicety. I am proud of Ted. I gave him his first job in the business. I did it on the recommendation of the late George W. Bowers, who so successfully managed the opera house of Ted's home town. I believe Ted Galbraith has profitted by the advice and pointers I gave him. Colonel Vogel says he's an ace, which means a whole, whole lot.

TRIBUTE OF LOVE AND REMEMBRANCE

BY DOC. WADDELL

Jimmie DeWolf is dead. All of the theatrical and circus realm, the world around, knew him. His stories for stage, celebrity and sawdust star live symbolic of his brilliancy. He wrote the final mortal line Sunday and passed to immortality with the truly earned sentiment: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Columbus was his home; here he was born and grew to young manhood. On Columbus papers he served apprenticeship and his ability as a story man won him place and laurels as press representative with all the big tent shows. During his career he also served ahead of DeWolf Hopper and other high class stage folk.

Tuberculosis brought his death. For almost a year he lived with his parents and spent most of this twelve months in a tent in open air. When Ringling Bros. Show exhibited here, May 19, he was taken in a carriage and permitted to tour the lot and see the grandeur of performance. It was his last look upon the life he loved, the farewell to those he mingled with when nurtured with full and rosy health.

I know not an eye is dry on the sphere we call "Show World," and one person I realize mourns next to the good mother and blood-kin; that one, Charley Thompson, legal adjuster of the Two Bills' Wild West and Far East. These two worshipped at the same shrines, drank out of the same canteen. When life's fever is over with Thompson the Power that rules will surely join the "Two Old Cronies" under the big blue middle-piece of Heaven. Jimmie DeWolf was thirty-six years old. The end came at the noonday of his existence. Bless his name. May his rest in the grave be touched with sweetest peace and dreams. The love we bore him in life we carry to his tomb and hold it there a sentinel telling the story of his goodness and his work. Farewell! Farewell!

SARAH BERNHARDT'S NEW REPERTORY

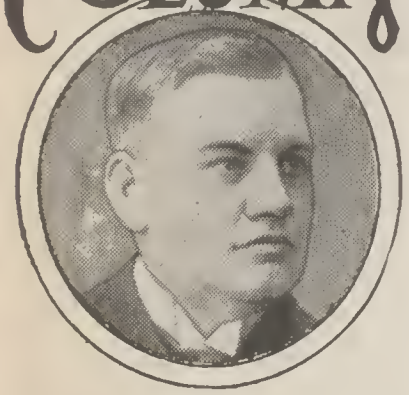
The Divine to Appear as Whirlwind of Histrionic Ability.

Sarah Bernhard's return to America, doubtless for the last time, though the customary fatuities about a "farewell" are missing from the announcements, will be one of the most interesting events of the coming theatrical season.

An imposing repertory, including no less than nineteen titles, is promised. The list will doubtless shrink when the tour gets under way, and will be subjected to a process of selection from the commercial point of view; but according to present advices, Bernhardt seems determined to sweep over the country as a whirlwind of histrionic versatility. Playing a new role every night, with superlative finish, has always been a casual task to the amazing Sarah. The catalogue of dramas from which she will choose includes six of her standard roles and thirteen which are practically new to this country as media of her art. Two of these plays are new to the footlights, and will have their first performance in America. The full list is as follows:

"L'Aiglo," by Edmond Rostand.
"Les Romanesques," by Edmond Rostand.
"Le Bois Sacre," by Edmond Rostand.
"Prineesse Lointaine," by Edmond Rostand.
"Faust" (one act), version by Edmond Rostand.
"L'Affaire de Jeanne d'Arc," by Emile Moreau.
"Les Bouffons," by Miguel Zamacois.
"Sapho," by Daudet and Beloit.
"La Sorciere," by Vietorien Sardou.
"La Tosea," by Victorien Sardou.
"Fedora," by Victorien Sardou.
"La Dame aux Camelias," by Alexandre Dumas fils.
"Phedre," by Racine.
"La Beffa," by Sem Benelli, version by Jean Richepin.
"La Rampe," by Baron Rothschild.
"La Passe," by Georges de Porto-Riche.
"Monna Vanna;" by Maurice Materlinck.
"Hamlet."
"Resurreetion," from Tolstoi, dramatized by Henri Bataille.

Otto Floto's COLUMN



Denver, July 13—Back home again from the big fight—I meant to say back home again from what was to have been the "fight of the century," but which proved to be the poorest exhibition ever witnessed for a championship title. Those who took the trip need find no fault with themselves, although the fight was not what they had bargained it would be. They were amply repaid for the long trip by the great sight that met their eyes when that arena was filled and by the hundreds of celebrities that they met or had pointed out to them. Representatives from all corners of the earth were there. Some had come a few hundred miles; others a few thousand miles, and some ten thousand miles. No distance seemed too far removed from Reno for the man interested in championship battles. Never before has there gathered the number of sporting writers or other prominent writers, for that matter. Every leading paper in the land had its representative.

Never before had six men that had held the heavyweight title of the world in their day met and conversed together. There were Johnson, Jeffries, Burns, Corbett, Fitzsimmons and Sullivan, who have all held the honor. Then there was Bill Lange, the Australian champion, who is striving for the honor, and Sam Langford, who believes that he is the master of Johnson. Added to this were Stanley Ketchel, Battling Nelson, Tom Sharkey, Al Kaufman, Jack O'Brien and many others. In the promoting line all the best were there. Jim Coffroth, with his smile, was one of the first to be introduced; so was Hugh McIntosh, the Australian premier; Tom McCarey of Los Angeles, another, and then Tex Rickard and Jack Gleason were brought forth. One of the biggest receptions was accorded "Big Tim" Sullivan, the final stakeholder. In fact, old Bill Jordan kept introducing celebrities until his voice gave out, and he himself said: "My pipes are gone and I can't go any further." It must be remembered that Jordan is seventy-seven years of age and the straining of his vocal cords was expected.

The excitement that always precedes an event of this kind is something that cannot be expressed outwardly. The taking of the pictures, the watching and straining of eyes as this or that notable enters to take his seat. The fact that Tex Rickard had built a private box on top of the arena edge for his wife to entertain her friends, among whom were Mrs. Rex Beach, Mrs. Dick Ferris and the wives of officials of the state. A luncheon was served before the battle began, and the ladies entered the box by a private entrance from the outside, especially built for that purpose. All these little incidents served to attract attention. Then someone would come along and whisper: "Johnson has just entered his dressing room." Again the conversation would drift to incidents that were taking place in the big inclosure. On all sides you would hear the cry of those willing to stake thousands on the chances of Jeffries, while Johnson money was nowhere to be had.

Then pretty soon someone would come along the press row again and softly say: "Jeffries and Corbett have just come in from Moana." We all knew then that the fight would begin shortly afterward. A band had held the center of the stage while the people were taking their seats. No sooner had the picture men finished and the introductions completed than Johnson with his trainers was seen making his way toward the center. Only a few cheers greeted him. Then came Jeff, with Corbett and Berger in his wake. Everybody shouted for the white man. Johnson in an elaborate bathrobe walked about the ring. When the reporters began to kid him about the gorgeous attire he pulled it back so he could show the inside and said:

"Look at this inside; this is a Canada baby." It was regal in its splendor, and emphasized the fact that Johnson, as always, leaned toward the gaudy.

The moment that Jeffries sat down in his corner his friends realized that he was gone. All the confidence that he had inspired by his wonderful work in the training quarters fell when he took his seat. He no more resembled the Jeffries that we had seen doing his road work, boxing and going fishing for the past month than night does day. It was a different man in that corner. When Abe Attell fitted the bandages he said: "Why, Jeff your hands and arms are cold and clammy." The big fellow kept chewing his gum and replied: "They will be all right after we fight a round or two."

When he took his clothes off and stepped to the center of the ring to be presented to the spectators he straddled his legs and his arms hung by his side apparently helpless. The moving pictures will show this more plainly than words can tell. Instead of the trained athlete who was about to strive for the greatest honor in pugilism, there stood a man who suffered a total nervous collapse. The strain had proven too great. He then realized the importance of his position. He felt that the eyes of the whole world were riveted on him and his performance. He was like the actor who suffers from stage fright and can't remember his lines. Jim Jeffries was beaten before he ever began.

Those who had stood by him and championed his cause did so on what they saw in the preliminary workouts in training quarters. There he was the real wild "cave man." He toyed and tossed about all his trainers and assistants. His strength was something marvelous. In fact, there were many who thought the fight would never go over three rounds and that he would cave in Johnson's body with his terrible wallops. His every appearance indicated and breathed success. All this was outwardly, however, for when he got into the ring this was changed to just the opposite extreme. No one inspiring item of his former self did he present. He appeared broken in mind and spirit—physically a giant, but a mental wreck. It was as complete a collapse as ever was witnessed anywhere in the world.

While Johnson was fortunate in having opposed to him a man in this pitiable plight, no credit should be taken away from his splendid victory. It is almost certain that he believed that the most formidable man he had ever been called upon to meet was about to face him. He knew the record of the man and realized that the man who had defeated Fitzsimmons, Corbett, Sharkey and a lot more was not to be trifled with. For that reason it is certain that Johnson himself was as much surprised a man when he learned of Jeffries' condition as anyone else about that big arena. The very fact that Johnson sent to Jeffries the day before the fight and wanted the money cut 50 and 50, instead of 75 per cent to the winner and 25 per cent to the loser, speaks for this assertion and shows in what high regard he held Jeffries as a fighter.

For that reason all the honor and glory that goes with the black man's victory belong to him. He, last of all, dreamt that he was going to get a man in the nervous condition that Jeffries showed himself to be. He all along felt that Jeff had regained his former condition, and that's why he didn't want to take any chances on the long and short end of the purse.

Whatever comedy there was in or during the fight was furnished by Jim Corbett and Johnson himself. They kept up a perfect crossfire of words that brought forth many a laugh. Once Corbett said:

"Go after him this round, Jeff, and he'll show that yellow streak."

"That's what they all say," replied Jack with a grin.

"Why don't you fight instead of stalling?" came back Corbett.

"I'm too clever, like you used to be, Jim," blurted out Johnson.

At another time after a short rally in the center of the ring Jeffries clinched with the black man.

"Love me, Jeff; love me," grinned Johnson.

"I'll love you before I get through," came back Jeff.

These little sallies at repartee were all that enlivened the contest, or it would have been as solemn as a funeral.

Jim Corbett gave about as good an explanation of Jeffries' action as I have heard, when he said:

"Jeff had nothing." Then he went on and said: "You know even so great a pitcher as Mathewson has days on which he 'has nothing.' The poorest excuse of batters in the world get up against him and hit him for home runs. Then there are days when he 'has everything,' and the mightiest men of the willow cannot touch him. In short his 'spitter' wasn't working. That's how I dope it, now that it's all over."

In short, the fight is now passed into history. Jeffries came back physically, as his friends claimed and expected. But they had not reckoned his mental condition, which proved his undoing. Johnson won, and is entitled to the championship and all that goes with it.

Gotch Could Win at Rough and Tumble.

Frank Gotch is going to make another attempt to master the fighting game. Whether he will succeed remains to be seen. Certain it is that Gotch has the strength, courage and weight which are some of the most essential requisites in the making of champions. Whether or not he will ever become scientific enough to make use of the other valuable assets with which nature endowed him time alone can tell. Some years ago Frank attempted to take a whirl at the fighting game in Alaska when he met Frank Slavin. His showing at that time did not bring forth anything on which hinge championships. However, it must be remembered that Gotch at that time was but twenty years old. He had not faced the world in athletics and had not met with the success he has since gained. Confidence is a wonderful factor and the fact that he realizes he is master of every man in the world when it comes to wrestling may instill a new spirit in his mind and he may labor under the impression that with the glove he will make equally as good a record.

Were he to meet Johnson in a rough and tumble match it would be twenty dollar gold pieces against counterfeit dollars that the man from Humboldt would defeat Johnson just as easy as any other ordinary man, for if Gotch got a hold on the big black man it would be all off. He could either twist his arm out of the socket or break his foot by twisting his ankle. Yes, in a rough and tumble match Johnson would stand no show whatever. However, if he meets Johnson in the ring he must meet him at his own game. He can not take "toe hold" nor can he bring the hammerlock into play. It's a case of lead, block and cross center once he gets within the squared circle. If Gotch thinks well of it he might try. He certainly could do no worse against the black man than did Jeffries at Reno on July 4.

That Little-Johnson Controversy.

It seems that the battle just at this time should be labeled Johnson vs.

"NAPOLEON" AND "GOVERNOR."

Twin colts owned by Mr. and Mrs. George West, Columbus, Ohio, named after "Governor" Robinson and "Napoleon" Tammen.

AL. W. HATCH.

Al. W. Hatch has purchased Frank Jones' buffet at 708 Walnut street, Kansas City. Mr. Hatch is a well known sporting man, and his buffet is the rendezvous for prominent show people with whom he is popular.

Little. Of all the silly "bull" they are shooting at each other the present cargo going the rounds of the press is the limit. Each accuses the other of wanting to "lay down." Little says Johnson faked with Ketchel and Kaufman, and Johnson comes back with the statement that Little wanted him to lay down to Jeffries. For my part I am ready to state that all of it is wrong. It is as untrue as when Sullivan stated that Johnson would lay down to Jeffries in the fight at Reno. Johnson by his splendid victory proved beyond doubt that Sullivan had the fight doped wrong and that it was more of sour grapes on the part of Sullivan.

Johnson didn't have to fake with Ketchel or Kaufman because he could with the greatest ease beat either of them then as well as now. That being the case where was there anything to gain by faking, especially as when we take consideration of the fact that the black man was top heavy favorite and no Ketchel or Kaufman money was in sight? To say the least it's "rotten" talk and does the fight game no good. I know that Jimmy Coffroth, at whose club the bouts were held, would have nothing whatever to do with a fake. Little may know something that was confidential between only he and Johnson and if such is the case then surely he must be less thought of for betraying confidences he enjoyed while acting in the capacity as manager of the black man. Little didn't say a word about fakes until he and Johnson fell out. If he meant to be on the level he would have exposed the fakes at the time they occurred.

McFarland Won by a City Block.

While at Reno I met Mr. George McDonald of London, who saw the "Packey" McFarland-Freddie Welch fight. According to Mr. McDonald, the Chicago man won by a city block and that all fair minded Englishmen regretted the incident most keenly. Regret at this stage of the game is but small consolation for McFarland, who must be satisfied with the verdict of a "draw" no matter what the afterthought of the battle may bring forth. I also saw all the London "exchanges" and they all bear out the statements of Mr. McDonald. Mr. Fyfe of the London Mail, who was at the Reno ringside also commented on the battle and conceded that the "Yankee won."

Speaking of McFarland, while in Reno, Tom Jones expressed himself as particularly anxious to consumate a match between Wolgast and the Stock Yards man. When I left Jones at Cheyenne on his way to Chicago, the last thing he said was: "You can't make it too strong about 'Packey' and Wolgast. Ad is ready at any time by the end of August or the beginning of September." A battle between this pair is one of the best cards any promoter could stage.

Jeff's Trainers Not to Blame.

It is amusing to hear people finding fault with the trainers that were about Jeffries during his recent stunt of preparation. They all say Jeffries should have had younger and huskier men. That's all very well for those to state who are not familiar with Jeff, but I want to tell you Jeff is a very stubborn individual, and once he makes up his mind to a thing all the world can't move him. No one tried harder than did Jim Corbett to have Jeff put in the last month at boxing. He begged and pleaded for Jeff to box. The big fellow would not do it and that was all there was to it. No matter who the trainers were, Jeff himself did as he pleased and no one could make him do any different.

So don't blame the men who were about Jeff for his condition. They all tried hard enough, heaven knows, and they all were as willing as they could be to stay up day and night if by doing so it would help Jeff. Outside of a little road work the last three days he did nothing. He was already too fine and the trainers themselves feared he would go stale. I want to say that Jim Jeffries was in far better condition four weeks before the fight, when I saw him at Rowardennan, than he was when he entered the ring at Reno. Condition had nothing to do with the loss of the fight. It was a nervous breakdown. Physically he was as well as he ever was in his life.

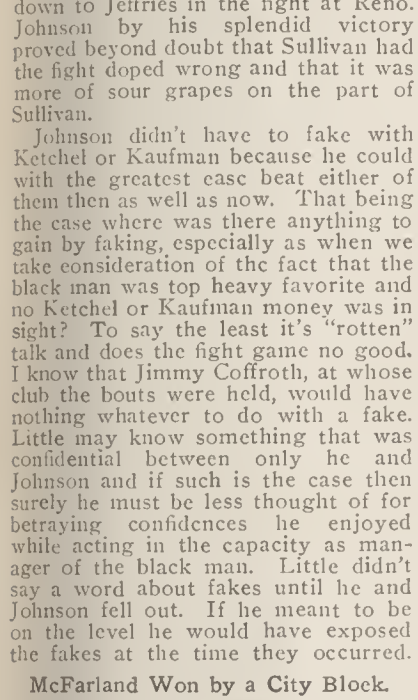
An Easy English Victory.

In the London Sporting Life of June 27 the following telegram appears:

"Defeated Abe Attell in 10 rounds tonight.—Owen Moran."

Could anything be farther removed from the truth? This telegram is made possible by the fact that only "newspaper decisions" are allowed in Los Angeles, where the battle occurred. Yet the reporters who sat by the ringside were of but one opinion to a man, and that was that Attell won. Yet the fact that Moran wires to England's great sporting sheet as above will leave a doubt in the minds of those who are not familiar with the situation on this side of the water. This makes four times that this pair of feathers met and no referee's verdict has declared either the winner. The time they had referees' decisions it was called a draw, and the other times in New York and Los Angeles there were the newspaper decisions that ruled. Looks like they should get together and fight it out, and in a long fight, so that the world will know just who is the better man.

THE RATEKIN TWINS.



Above is the likeness of Mason E. and Jason E. Ratekin, twins, whose proud father is Jason E. Ratkin, for twenty-one years the treasurer of the Grand Opera House, Kansas City, who numbers a host of friends in and out of the profession of entertainment.

CUBS AND GIANTS CHOICE IN NATIONAL.

The race in the National league is going to be a great struggle between New York and Chicago. It looks as if these teams are quite evenly matched, now that McGraw has his pitchers going good again. The two victories secured by the Giants in Chicago last Saturday and Sunday do not count so much in themselves as games won as they do in demonstrating to the Cubs that the McGraw band is not the easy proposition to beat it has been for the last three years so far as the Chicago team is concerned. It's the impression these victories make on the fans, both in New York and Chicago, that hurts the latter city's team.

The Cubs have not been going so well the last month, but they will strike their pace again before long and run out in front once more. During the past two weeks the Cubs have lost as many as they won. That Cincinnati bunch is going to be a factor in the race, and will prove a stumbling block to the leaders on many occasions. Let Griffith strengthen up a little in his pitching department and he has as good a ball team as any of the others.

AL. G. FIELDS PRODUCES A NEW CHANTICLER PLAY.

This is the twenty-fifth year of Al. G. Fields' managerial career, and Mr. Fields has endeavored to make it memorable by the launching of a production more pretentious than any he has launched during his long connection with minstrelsy.

Four big scenic displays are included in the program. In "Minstrelsy In All Ages of the World," three scenes are required, David at the Court of Saul, Modern Minstrelsy, and American Minstrelsy. This is followed by a burlesque on Chanticler, entitled "Can't I Cheer," in part a political satire. Uncle Joe Cannon is represented as the peacock, Taft as the turkey Tom, and Teddy Roosevelt is Chanticler. All the barnyard individuals will have representation.

An innovation is introduced in "The Bottom of the Sea," showing deep sea divers, a sunken ship, treasure lore seekers, mermaids, devil-fish and other sea monsters and deep sea spectacles.

The concluding number is a naval review, "Ships and Sailors." All the battleships that have made our navy famous from revolutionary days until the present pass in review, illustrating the handling of a fleet at sea.

FRISCO HOT AFTER BIG AFFAIR IN 1915.

Golden Gate City Has Its Coat Off and Many Plans are Brewing.

San Francisco, July 13—With push and energy characteristic of the West, San Francisco has taken off its coat and is out for the next world's fair, to be held in this country in 1915 to commemorate the completion of the Panama Canal. Frisco boosters have gone so far as to name the coming celebration the Panama-Pacific International Exposition and directors have been appointed to see that this city's claims for the big affair are properly advanced. A luncheon is to be held in the near future to formulate plans for the raising of the million and a quarter of dollars which is yet lacking to complete the $7,500,000 fund which Congress requires for the exposition and to inaugurate a publicity campaign which shall be both beneficial to Frisco in its present contention and educational to the public at large.

New Orleans is opposing San Francisco in its fight for the big celebration.

PLEASURE PIER FOR TEXAS CITY

Texas City, Tex., July 13.—It is expected that the erection of a pleasure pier that will extend 700 feet into Galveston bay will begin soon. The pier will be equipped with shower baths, etc., and will enable the people to take advantage of the excellent bathing facilities of the bay.

It was learned today that negotiations are under way for the erection of a big baseball park and grandstand in this city. It is understood that the largest retail merchants of this city and Galveston are assisting the enterprise with a view of using the advertising space.

L. M. RUBENS OWNS STRING OF THEATERS.

L. M. Rubens was in Chicago last week arranging bookings for his theaters with the Cox agency. His New Fox Theater, at Aurora, a ten-cent vaudeville house seating 1800, played to 16,334 admissions on July 4 from 10 A. M. to 11 P. M.

Other houses owned by Mr. Rubens are the Crystal Stairs and the Tavern at Joliet, five-cent houses of 600 seating capacity, and the Majestic, a ten-cent house in the same city, seating 1720, which splits with Aurora. Assisting Mr. Rubens are his three brothers, J. J., manager of the Aurora house; H. A., manager of the Crystal Stairs, and C. B., manager of the Tavern.

SPANIARD INVENTS THEATRICAL LIGHT.

The latest theatrical light comes from Spain, and a Spanish engineer, Fortunty, who uses an ore lamp as the source of light. The rays of the lamp, instead of falling directly on the scene, are thrown against a series of silk bands, which are unrolled and set in any position by means of pulleys. The bands serve to reflect the light and change it into a perfectly diffused light. The new method also includes a sky which is formed in a quarter of a sphere and composed of a steel cap which is treated with a dead white coating. The diffused light is sent into this dome and gives the illusion of an unlimited space.

Another interesting device is used to dispense with the ordinary clouds, which always have a rigid appearance to the audience. These now appear to be quite plastic and mobile. Such result is secured by the use of mirrors which reflect painted screens representing clouds. When the mirrors are rotated slowly the clouds appear to move slowly over the sky.

All the present system is worked from four small cabins which are placed in the auditorium. Competent persons are of the opinion that the present invention forms a considerable progress from an artistic as well as a technical and economical point of view.

PRESCRIBES STAGE AS CURE FOR BLUES.

Boston, July 13.—The dazzle of the footlights is the latest cure recommended by a reputable physician for neurasthenia. Mrs. Alice M. Ingoldsby, a prominent Back Bay society woman, was advised by her physician eight months ago that a chance on the stage would cure her of the "blues." Mrs. Ingoldsby has accepted an engagement with the "Up and Down Broadway" company for next season.

ACTRESS PAYS MANAGER DAMAGES.

A Parisian actress was the other day directed by the court to pay $2,000 damages to the manager of a theater in which she had refused to play a part for which she had been engaged. The actress claimed that the part contained a situation which offended her sense of propriety. The court pointed out that she had previously played parts in which there were the most daring situations.

JULY 16, 1910

Men may come and men may go but Lillian Russel bids fair to go on forever. Another new play for her next season!

Press agents ought not to have much trouble in touting Jack Johnson our distinguished Chicagoan, when he goes into vaudeville.

Elbert Hubbard, who says many pungent and some putrid things, says: "Few towns have so much art as Gotham. The only trouble is that most of the Gothamites are fond of burlesque and high diving." Pretty good description of our eastern suburb, eh?

Our esteemed contemporary "Doc" O. L. Hall of the Journal, says: "One of the New York variety theaters has in its list of near-headliners a young man who isn't afraid to bill himself as 'the male Eva Tanguay.'" Perhaps his billing is his protection.

Some one without the fear of the Chicago fire department in his heart attempted to open an airdome at Wilson Beach. As it is, the airdome is not in use, and Wilson Beach patrons will have to content themselves with bathing as their only amusement.

TO OUR READERS.

The Show World would like to hear from readers of the paper. We want your ideas. Write a letter occasionally on some current event that interests you. Letters should be short—not over 250 words—and written on one side of the sheet.

The proprietor of a moving picture theater in Spokane, Wash., was recently fined $50 and costs for admitting to his theater a minor, unaccompanied by parents or guardian. They also fine people for smoking cigarettes or having "the makings" in their pockets in the state of Washington.

Every newspaper of consequence in the country had special representatives at the ringside in Reno and spent thousands of dollars in "covering" the Johnson-Jeffries fight because "the people wanted it." Now many of these same newspapers are fighting the moving pictures of the fight again because "the people want it." People's wants are indeed many and varied.

If he graduates from a public high school by the time he is fourteen years of age, takes a degree in Harvard by the time he is eighteen, studies law at Oxford for six months, is graduated from West Point, and, after holding a commission in the army, resigns and, after becoming thoroughly educated in law, begins its practice; spends his vacations traveling France, Spain, Italy, Greece, Germany, Denmark, and Russia, in the order named, never becomes a Roman catholic, learns manual training, dancing, and music, and—bewares of women, a Chicago boy is to inherit $250,000. With the temperature hugging the hundred mark, what's the use.

CHICAGO LADIES WITH PRIMA DONNA

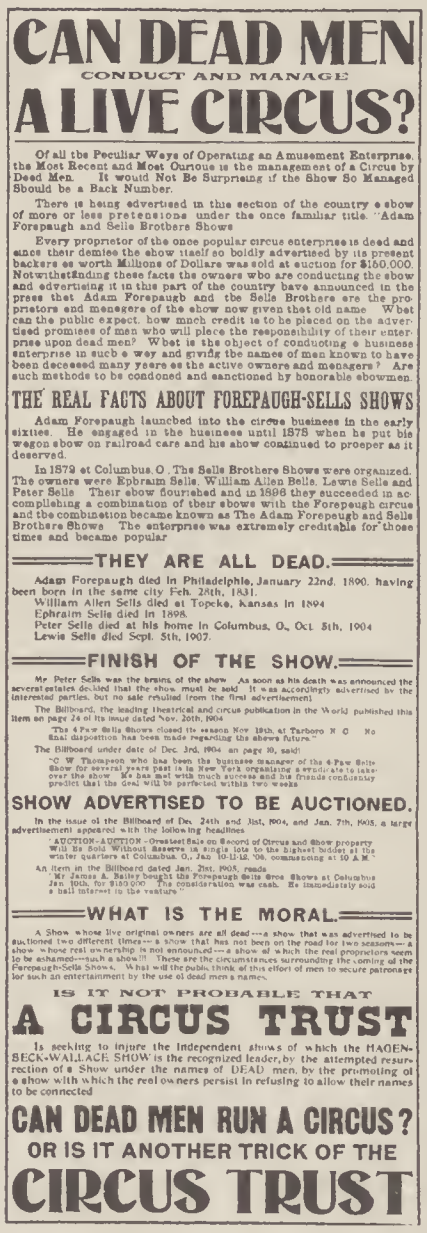
THROWING CIRCUS STONES FROM BEHIND A BUSH



CAN DEAD MEN
CONDUCT AND MANAGE
A LIVE CIRCUS?

Of all the Peculiar Ways of Operating an Amusement Enterprise, the Most Recent and Most Curious is the management of a Circus by Dead Men. It would Not Be Surprising if the Show So Managed Should be a Back Number.

There is being advertised in this section of the country a show of more or less pretensions under the once familiar title, "Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Shows"

Every proprietor of the once popular circus enterprise is dead and since their demise the show itself so boldly advertised by its present backers as worth Millions of Dollars was sold at auction for $150,000. Notwithstanding these facts the owners who are conducting the show and advertising it in this part of the country have announced in the press that Adam Forepaugh and the Sells Brothers are the proprietors and managers of the show now given that old name. What can the public expect, how much credit is to be placed on the advertised promises of men who will place the responsibility of their enterprise upon dead men? What is the object of conducting a business enterprise in such a way and giving the names of men known to have been deceased many years as the active owners and managers? Are such methods to be condoned and sanctioned by honorable showmen.

THE REAL FACTS ABOUT FOREPAUGH-SELLS SHOWS

Adam Forepaugh launched into the circus business in the early sixties. He engaged in the business until 1878 when he put his wagon show on railroad cars and his show continued to prosper as it deserved.

In 1879 at Columbus, O. The Sells Brothers Shows were organized. The owners were Ephraim Sells, William Allen Sells, Lewis Sells and Peter Sells. Their show flourished and in 1896 they succeeded in accomplishing a combination of their shows with the Forepaugh circus and the combination became known as The Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Shows. The enterprise was extremely creditable for those times and became popular

THEY ARE ALL DEAD.

Adam Forepaugh died in Philadelphia, January 22nd, 1890, having been born in the same city Feb. 28th, 1831.
William Allen Sells died at Topeka, Kansas in 1894
Ephraim Sells died in 1898.
Peter Sells died at his home in Columbus, O., Oct. 5th, 1904
Lewis Sells died Sept. 5th, 1907.

FINISH OF THE SHOW.

Mr. Peter Sells was the brains of the show. As soon as his death was announced the several estates decided that the show must be sold. It was accordingly advertised by the interested parties, but no sale resulted from the first advertisement.

The Billboard, the leading theatrical and circus publication in the World published this item on page 24 of its issue dated Nov. 20th, 1904

"The 4 Paw Sells Shows closed its season Nov. 19th, at Tarboro, N. C. No final disposition has been made regarding the shows future."

The Billboard under date of Dec. 3rd, 1904 on page 30, said:

"C. W. Thompson who has been the business manager of the 4 Paw Sells Show for several years past is in New York organizing a syndicate to take over the show. He has met with much success and his friends confidently predict that the deal will be perfected within two weeks"

SHOW ADVERTISED TO BE AUCTIONED.

In the issue of the Billboard of Dec. 24th and 31st, 1904, and Jan. 7th, 1905, a large advertisement appeared with the following headlines

"AUCTION—AUCTION—Greatest Sale on Record of Circus and Show property Will Be Sold Without Reserve to Single Lots to the Highest Bidder at the winter quarters at Columbus, O., Jan. 10-11-12, '05, commencing at 10 A. M."

An item in the Billboard dated Jan. 21st, 1905, reads

"Mr. James A. Bailey bought the Forepaugh Sells Bros. Shows at Columbus Jan. 10th, for $150,000. The consideration was cash. He immediately sold a half interest in the venture."

WHAT IS THE MORAL.

A Show whose five original owners are all dead—a show that was advertised to be auctioned two different times—a show that has not been on the road for two seasons—a show whose real ownership is not announced—a show of which the real proprietors seem to be ashamed—such a show!!! These are the circumstances surrounding the coming of the Forepaugh-Sells Shows. What will the public think of this effort of men to secure patronage for such an entertainment by the use of dead men's names.

IS IT NOT PROBABLE THAT A CIRCUS TRUST

Is seeking to injure the Independent shows of which the HAGENBECK-WALLACE SHOW is the recognized leader, by the attempted resurrection of a Show under the names of DEAD men, by the promoting of a show with which the real owners persist in refusing to allow their names to be connected

CAN DEAD MEN RUN A CIRCUS?
OR IS IT ANOTHER TRICK OF THE CIRCUS TRUST

¶ A quarter-sheet, of which a facsimile is printed herewith, the same reading matter being on both sides, is being widely distributed against the Forepaugh-Sells Shows whenever in the neighborhood of Hagenbeck-Wallace territory.

¶ Evidently Uncle Ben Wallace is causing its distribution, but is not courageous enough to sign his name to it or to indicate where it was printed or anything about it. All of this is worth recording, because if a man is fighting any competitor he should be big enough to assume the responsibility for anything that he may say or do, and moreover, during these strenuous circus days it is especially worth remembering because, taking the Sells-Floto Circus as an instance, while all of their methods may not be favorably criticised, it nevertheless stands to their credit that there is no hiding behind any bush and their opposition is plain and simple, with a responsibility as to its authorship so there can be no question. This circular also brings out some new points in the law-suits between Ringling Bros. and Sells-Floto and may require the presence of Mr. Wallace in court to testify.

¶ From a business point of view the question for circus people to decide is, does this circular harm Forepaugh-Sells or harm Hagenbeck-Wallace? Is this good advertising or poor advertising? Those of our readers who have anything to say, we will be glad to print their communications.

¶ The man who can throw a good deal of light on all of the statements in the circular is Louis E. Cooke, now general agent of the Buffalo Bill-Pawnee Bill shows, because at that time the offering of sale was being promoted by him and he was helping to develop a syndicate.

FRANK J. GOULD MARRIED ONCE MORE.

New York, July 13.—Persistent rumors, current for some time, that Frank J. Gould and Edith Kelly, the pretty dancer, were man and wife, have been substantiated by friends arriving from Europe where the interested parties are at present. It is said that Mr. Gould and Miss Kelly were married five weeks ago. News of the event was suppressed upon request of Mr. Gould, who wished to have the announcement of his former wife's marital plans made first. Helen Kelly Gould, divorced from Frank Gould some time ago, recently secured a license to wed Ralph Hill Thomas.

Editor the Show World:
I have on file all of the dramatic papers for years back but of all of them I most prize the Show World. It is truly a present day show man's up-to-the-minute guide. I often read your valued paper twice for the genuine pleasure the reading of it gives me.
Long live the Show World; it has them all beaten regardless of the price.
Yours very truly,

Gentlemen:—Just bought my Show World and, believe me, five cents per copy was a surprise. The others will have to step about some to keep abreast.
Just finished a visit to my father who is vice-president of the Minnesota National Bank in Minneapolis. It was our first time together in eight years and we didn't waste much time; rode around in father's new Packard most of the week.
We play the Majestic, St. Paul, week of July 18 and will then spend a week at the Saratoga in Chicago where we hope to hear from any of the bunch.
Best of luck to the Show World.
Yours.

TOM ENGLISH DEAD AS RESULT OF FALL.

Boston, Mass., July 13.—Thomas F. English, well known to theater-goers of a generation ago, died at Rockland recently from injuries sustained through falling from a roof. Mr. English was with Henry E. Dixey when the latter made his stage debut as the forelegs of the heifer in "Evangeline." He retired from the stage in 1896 after having played for twenty-seven years.

Louis Mann Says:

"Life is just what we think it is every time."

"The greatest glory in life is telling others how to do it."

"There is little inspiration in anything where the worker does not create."

"I would rather act than eat; every time I walk out on the stage and face an audience I experience a thrill of joy."

"There is only one kind of training for any kind of stage work, and that is the old legitimate schooling."

"The greatest mistake that actors of the modern school have made is to try and specialize in their work."

"You have to be serious to be funny. The more miserable and woe-begone a comedian is, the more an audience will laugh at him as a rule. It is almost impossible to be too serious in acting a funny role."

"Our emotions are like the tides of the sea—when it is high tide on one side of the footlights it is low tide on the other."

"A laugh is the most serious thing in life."

"We cannot be any happier than we are when we are contented."—New York Review.

Amusement News Gleaned by Show World Representatives the Country Over

CALIFORNIA.

Los Angeles, July 11.—A city ordinance passed July 26, 1897, prohibiting the exhibition of motion pictures in this city which depict prizefights of any description, was unearthed by City Prosecutor Guy Eddie last Tuesday. This will probably put a ban on the Jeffries-Johnson pictures here. For a violation of the ordinance there is a fine of $50 and imprisonment in the city jail for a term not to exceed fifty days. Chief of Police Galloway has read the ordinance to the entire police force and all moving picture managers are being informed on the subject.

Warm summer days evidently have no effect on the theater going public in this city for the week's business at all playhouses has been exceptionally good. In consideration of a possible slump, however, respective managers are offering the best plays and acts obtainable.

Margaret Anglin in "The Awakening of Helena Richie," is holding popular favor at the Mason.

"Samson," James K. Hackett's farewell offering at the Majestic, was a huge financial and artistic success. Myrtle Vane will leave the Hackett company and commence on an extended engagement at the Burbank.

The Majestic will be dark week of July 10, followed by Virginia Harned.

Burbank audiences have given unstinted and deserving praise to Richard Bennett and Marjorie Rambeau in the second week's run of "Pierre of the Plains." The play was rehearsed under the personal supervision of the author, Edgar Selwyn. Richard Bennett closed his Los Angeles engagement with the final performance of the present play.

Eugene Walter's successful drama, "The Wolf," was given its first stock production on any stage at the Belasco this week and the S. R. O. sign adorned the doorway each night. Two years and a half ago, Walter offered his play to the Belasco management at a royalty of $100 per week. Now they are paying $800 a week which merely goes to show what popular favor means to the playwright.

Vesta Victoria, the charming little English comedienne will make her first appearance in Los Angeles at the Orpheum week of 10.

The writer had a pleasant chat with Ralph Fargo, manager of the Olympic, which has recently come into such popular favor under his management. Fargo is an old friend of Warren Patrick. Also, he discovered Blossom Seeley one of the daintiest musical comedy attractions on the coast.

Prof. Burleigh's Balloon Girl closes her engagement with the S. & C. circuit at the close of her present engagement at the Los Angeles. She will go directly to Australia and Honolulu for a nineteen weeks' run after which she will conclude her trip around the world.

The moving picture business at all houses is unusually heavy.—Thornton Doelle.

INDIANA.

Anderson, Ind., July 11.—The Nickelodeon was recently reopened with C. C. Trump, proprietor and Earl Dunbar, manager. Recent improvements, including the installation of a four piece orchestra, make this theater one of the most attractive ones in this city.

The Star theater was opened by Joseph E. Hennings, who is also manager of the Grand. Bookings are with the H. Leiber Company, of Indianapolis. The theater has been drawing good business since its openings.

Evansville, Ind., July 11.—The New Majestic theater was purchased last week by Geo. W. Storton of Louisville, who, it is claimed, is representing the interests of Klaw & Erlanger. The New Majestic was built last December by the Bijou Amusement Company and had been running vaudeville attractions until purchased by Mr. Storton who closed the house on the 9th.

Oak Summit Park, Edw. Raymond, manager (Sullivan & Considine bookings), week of July 10.—Flo Adler and her two boys, Elliott & Elliott, comedy singing, talking and dancing; Joseph Callahan, Great Men Past and Present; Theresa Valerio, character change artist, and Anna Nichtern Buckley and her dogs.—Holz.

wheat belt of central Kansas. Tent show life seems to be agreeing with Cunningham.

Advertising Car No. 1 of the Sells-Floto Shows was here during the last week putting up paper. It was done in a very thorough manner and has created much favorable comment on the circus. Four wagons were sent out to cover the country and it is doubtful if any rural mail box escaped being filled with advertising matter. According to all indications, the shows should do a record business. The car went from here to St. Joe, Mo. The newspapers of Kansas are boosting the Sells-Floto aggregation.

A bill-posting crew of the Forepaugh-Sells circus arrived in this city a day later than the Sells-Floto car and began at once to put up their "coming soon" paper. Considerable space was used by them but nothing like as much as that used by the Sells-Floto people. They must have a poor idea as to how long "soon" means because they stated to the Show World representative that they would show here some time during September.

The Show World Interests Other Than Showmen

Vincennes, Ind., July 13.—The Colonial theater, under the management of Messrs. Moore & Willis has been transformed into a veritable woodland bower with singing canaries and is without doubt one of the most novelly decorated places of amusement in the state; the walls are covered with trestleated creeping vines, interspersed with maple and beech leaves.

It reopened Sunday evening to an immense audience with the Imperial Musical Trio as the leading attraction. The canaries entered into the spirit of the scene and their melodious warbling mingled with the strains of music from the stage. The policy of the management will be to offer high class vaudeville with the newest pictures. Messrs. Moore & Willis now have ownership and control of the Grand Opera House, Red Mill theater and the Colonial theater.—Bell.

A Chautauqua will be held in Minneapolis, Kan., July 22 to 31.—Corlette.

All of the moving picture houses seem to be doing well in spite of the extremely warm weather.

The Forepaugh-Sells Bros. Shows are to exhibit here August 18; Charles Hayes, in advance, was here Friday.—G. Schetuey.

A BUSTED PROMISE:

A couple of weeks ago we promised to submit proof showing that the moving picture trust is trying to ruin the business of certain exhibitors who refuse to charge ten cents instead of five cents admission to their theatres. We failed to get the proof in the time we expected, but we'll get it yet! In fact, we are going to "show up" every move the trust makes till we compel every blessed one of you to realize that ALL your safety lies in immediate and true Independence. We are giving the most wonderful film service you ever dreamed of. Every day you fail to get it you are holding back your own progress in the film exhibition business. Write at once.

Mr. Cooke contradicts many of the stories sent out by the Independents and says that the syndicate activities next season will show conclusively that the "trust's" stronghold has not been stormed. He states positively that K. & E. will build a theater here.

Twelve boys and twelve girls, residents of this city, are being trained by Jane Vivian Kelton to appear in "Kathleen Mavourneen" August 31 and Sept. 1 for the benefit of the Day Nursery Fund. Miss Kelton is leading lady with the Sandusky-Lawrence company which is playing a summer's engagement in stock in this city. The company is planning a production of "Romeo and Juliet" for the near future. "The Clansman" and "The Love Route" are two of the plays they are using.

Local parks are doing nicely. Liberatti's Royal Italian Band began a two-week engagement at Natatorium Park last evening. Liberty Lake, sixteen miles east of Spokane, provides, boating, fishing and dancing.

"The White Squaw," with Della M. Clarke, was the attraction at the Auditorium July 8-10. Margaret Anglin plays "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," July 16-17, and William Collier is here July 25-26.

SUMMER PARKS MAKE HAY IN SUNSHINE

Creatore, at Sans Souci, One of Chicago's Best Outdoor Attractions at the Present Time—Gossip

BY WILL REED DUNROY

THIS is the season of the summer park. The downtown theaters are either closed or are doing a slim business to sweltering crowds. But out in the open, the people are thronging in vast crowds, and are trying to keep cool as well as amuse themselves. Riverview is drawing like a great magnet; White City tempts and lures her crowds, and the smaller parks are also in the running. And, among the smaller parks of Chicago, there is one that stands out prominently. This is Sans Souci, the cool, shady, green park, which has been a haven of rest and coolness for many seasons. This year many improvements have been made, and the park, while it still retains its many natural features, such as trees, greensward, and flowers, has numerous other features that are more or less common to the common or garden variety of summer playgrounds.

Quite naturally, if you were to ask what or who was the greatest magnet in this pretty playground, the answer would be "Creatore." Signor Creatore is one of the dynamic bandmasters. He is of the pyrotechnic school, but he is not a charlatan. He is a good musician, as well as a gymnast, and his spectacular method of conducting does not detract from the general effect. The programs offered are of the best; the music selected is of the better sort, interspersed with popular airs and selections, so that all classes and conditions of men may be entertained. The stickler for the classics finds what he wants, and the person who thinks there is no music except in a melody, is also well pleased. Two concerts are given daily, and they are well patronized. The management makes its boast that the music offered at Sans Souci is about the best to be found in this neck of the woods and perhaps the boast is not out of place.

One of the new and popular features of this park this season is the $50,000 Rathskeller. This is a place where your senses are pleased with all sorts of tempting features. There is music and there are refreshments. It is an ideal place in which to eat, and where the eating is done to the accompaniment of merry tunes. The Crystal Casino and Al Fresco restaurant is another place where the inner man is delighted amidst pleasant surroundings. These hot nights, it is a real pleasure to eat in this park, where everything is conducive to coolness and thorough enjoyment. For the children, a merry-go-round with real live ponies is offered, and this feature is mighty popular with the younger generation, as a matter of course. Among the park amusements there is the Alps Rill where one may ride on the rushing water, and catch glimpses of artificial Alps. The dance hall is popular, and the fine dancing floor is almost always rythmic with the feet of happy dancers. The Aerial Subway and the Roller Coaster, as well as the Spiral Thriller, affords the thrills that are deemed so necessary to the seeker for summer recreation. Last, but not least, there is the Tickler, which is no end of fun, and there are vaudeville shows, moving picture performances and other interesting amusements. Taken all in all, the park is a clean, wholesome and interesting spot, and one in which the person who likes refined pleasures may find them at their best.

Miles F. Fried is the general manager; M. G. Wolf, the assistant manager, and our old friend James Hutton, is just now doing the publicity work, which means that it will certainly be put before the public in an intelligent manner.

The sound of the hammer is heard in the land, and the steel drill is grating merrily on the ear. The Blackstone, which is promised will be one of the finest theaters in Chicago, is slowly looming up near Michigan avenue, and will probably throw open its doors about November 1. The new Gayety theater, which will be devoted to burlesque, is beginning to show signs of growing in Clark street between Washington and Madison streets, and workmen are busily engaged in making a Class Five house out of Sid J. Euson's theater over in North Clark street. A new stage is being put in; new floors are being laid, and the house will be neat and compact when it is completed and ready for the opening of the season some time during the latter part of August. There are several other theaters, on which hammers have not as yet been heard. They may materialize some sweet day, but when, no one knows. Take the much talked of Shubert for example. It has been built on paper many times, but that is as far as it has got. George M. Cohan's theater is also in the paper stage, as yet.

Harold Ward, the ubiquitous press agent of the Garrick and the Lyric, has gone to Sterling, Ill., where he is telling the people of that vicinity what a great place Chicago is. Mr. Ward is a hum-dinger of a press scout and he has been doing some good work the past season in Chicago.

There have been many inquiries along the local Rialto as to the whereabouts of one Henry A. Guthrie. Report has it that he has gone to Louisville, where he is busily engaged in putting away the mint crop.

They do say as how Otto Henkle was one of the prime movers in the recent bloodless battle in which the Askin forces took over the La Salle theater. Henkle is some fighter as well as publicity promoter, and there is no doubt at all but that he was in the vanguard of the encounter.

Some vaudeville plagarist ought to write a sketch and call it "Steal." And why not?

There is a rumor current to the effect that "Meat" was too raw to be a success. It was on the boards so short a time that the critics didn't even have a chance to roast it.

By the way, the New York Review doesn't seem to be cutting the wide swath it once did. Perhaps it is the heated season that has melted the ardor of the talented persons who write that publication.

Some one should dramatize Little Jeff and Mutt and it's dollars to doughnuts some one will before very long, too.

It will be of interest to a vast number of theatrical people to know that the new Sherman House is fast assuming completed proportions.

John Nicholson's Sylvan Players, a sort of Bon Greet bunch is doing stunts out at Scammon Gardens, near the University of Chicago. These players are offering high brow stuff, and the high brows are consequently very happy.

And by the way, when the Haymarket, which has for years been a vaudeville house, opens its doors to the more or less legitimate drama this fall, "The Red Mill" will be offered. "The Time, the Place and the Girl" and "A Broken Idol" will be later offerings. These musical comedies ought to tickle the West Siders immensely.

Anne Bronaugh and Guy Coombs, have been doing the "Romeo and Juliet" stunt at the Bijou theater the West Side this week. This play which was written, so it is averred, by one William Shakespeare, is a very fine hot weather show, according to the reports from the Halsted street clientele.

When it comes to writing hi-brow stuff, Sheppard Butler of the Record-Herald is a close second to James O'Donnell Bennett. One would hardly know that Mr. Bennet were out of town, except that his long name is not attached to the dramatic stuff in the Record-Herald.

George Kingsbury, who has been running the Majestic theater during the absence of Lyman B. Glover, will soon go over to the Olympic to write the passes while Sam Lederer is abroad. When asked as to what would come to the Chicago Opera House this season Mr. Kingsbury answered:

"I don't know."

This is the season of the understudy. William Norris is out of the cast at the Whitney Opera House and some one else is playing his part. Elizabeth Murray is nursing a broken leg, and her role in "Madame Sherry" is being played by some other body.

Cliff Fox writes that "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway" with Olive Vail and a special cast will be offered in the City of Suds, otherwise Milwaukee, some time in July for summer run.

Floyd Montgomery, who has been playing the leading juvenile role in "The Wyoming Girl" which has been meeting with much success in Iowa towns, has returned to the city on account of failing health. Gerald Gilmartin, who was also with that company has returned to Chicago to take another position. Since the advent of the roasting weather, the company has been playing in a tent, and Iowans seem to like the show and the tent, for big crowds have been the fashion, according to the two young players who have returned.

There is some talk in the heated atmosphere of a big indoor testimonial to Channing Ellery when his band closes its engagement at Bismarck Garden. Some prominent men are behind the scheme and it may possibly come to pass.

Most of the members of the company playing in "Madame Sherry" bet that Jeffries would win in the late lamented fisticuff encounter in Reno. The reason was that H. H. Frazee, one of the pronrietors of the show was very much interested in the man who was wiped off the map by the big smoke. And Johnson certainly did hang some cloud over the Colonial.

Sam Lederer, the aggressive manager of the Olympic theater, who in the short time that he has been in the theatrical game has made a name for himself, will soon sail across the briny deep for foreign lands. He will go to Prague, Bohemia, there to see his aged father.

Lou Wall Moore, who is Chicago's Lady Constance Richardson, will dance in her bare tootsies at the Colonial next week, in "Madame Sherry." Miss Moore's costume is altogether a hot weather creation, but it consists of more than blue stockings and a smile—which is described as the badge of the new Order of Blue Birds organized in New York.

RALPH KETTERING'S NEW POSITION.

Ralph T. Kettering, at present serving as manager of publicity at White City, is the newly appointed general press representative for the Haymarket, Bijou, Star, and Academy theaters, Chicago.

The Academy is to begin its season of vaudeville about the middle of August and the announcement of its opening recalls the fact that it is the oldest playhouse in the Windy City and was once the foremost Chicago playhouse. It has played vaudeville for twenty-four years; old Billy Emmett gave the theater's first performance of this kind in the days when vaudeville was "variety." Tony Pastor managed the house more than a score of years ago.

The Haymarket, Bijou, Star, and Academy are controlled by the Kohl-Castle firm and are managed by William Roche.

BEGINNINGS OF ENRICO CARUSO

Great Tenor Proved Very Bad Soldier And Was Fired.

Caruso who is at present charming Parisians at the Theater de Chatelet, has been telling certain friends the almost unknown story of how he obtained his first singing lessons. In picturesque Naples, the city of his birth, at the age of 18, Enrico Caruso earned about $1 a day at pattern designing. He had a musical voice and confided to his father his ambition to become a great singer. The old man, however, would not hear of this. But the young man persisted in his desire to develop his talent, and so the father opened the door one day and requested him to "clear out," telling his son to make his living as he pleased, and also to take another name if he dishonored his own.

Enrico called on a priest. To him he sang the "O Salutaris." The priest was charmed at once, and took the young man to the choirmaster with the order to teach singing to the Neapolitan boy gratis. Finally he led the choir and became its soloist. And he was able to study without starving, with the priest's generous aid.

Then Caruso went to do his military service and was enrolled in a regiment of artillery. Asked for his profession, he replied "Singer." The captain, considering that such a profession could not make a very efficient artilleryman, assigned the recruit to the hardest tasks. Caruso was cheerful under the circumstances and kept on singing.

He was exercising his voice one day. The major, passing the barrack yard, heard him. The man had a fiery temper and was feared by every one in the regiment. He immediately sent for the singer.

"So you are a singer? And you think you are here to sing, do you?"

Caruso began incoherently to excuse himself. But the major seemed very angry and would not listen. He threatened to "teach" him that the barracks was no place for singing and ordered Caruso to call on him that same evening, where he would be at liberty to sing as much as he wished.

After Caruso had sung for the major the latter took him to the cafe of the town, where he had made an appointment with a teacher of music and other competent judges. After the tenor's trial the major addressed him: "Be off and study your music, bad soldier! And do not let me see you at the barracks any more than is necessary."

When Caruso left the regiment he did not know much about gunnery or the science of warfare, but he had made considerable progress toward his goal. And, Caruso adds today, that is why he loves priests and soldiers.

TIGER CREATES HAVOC ON SHIP

Bremen, July 13.—A most exciting incident occurred on board the German steamer Rameses, bound for South America with a cargo which included a number of wild animals for a menagerie. A magnificent specimen of a royal Bengal tiger succeeded in escaping from its cage and creeping into the crew's quarters, the entrance to which had been left open, attacked the cook, who was asleep in his hammock. The shouts of the man, who was being badly mauled by the animal's claws, alarmed the rest of the crew, who surrounded the tiger and drove it back to the deck. The now enraged beast could not be forced into its cage, and some of the sailors wounded it with revolver shots, thereupon it suddenly turned, leaped into the sea and was not seen again.

LOTTIE GILSON IN CONCERT HALL

New York, July 13.—Lottie Gilson, once a Broadway star, is doing a turn in a cheap concert hall at Fort George. The meterorically successful comedienne who is now "down and out" was last heard of when she was picked up in a destitute condition and taken to a hospital.

NEW THEATER IN FORT MADISON.

Fort Madison, Ia., July 13.—The new Crown theater in this city is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy by August 1.

MISS NELLIE REVELL A LA JACK JOHNSON.

Chicago, July 13.—Nellie Revell, one-time press agent at the Olympic theater in this city in its vaudeville days, threw herself into the limelight in New York city recently by cutting loose a Jack Johnson punch which almost finished one Morris Gest with whom she took issue. Miss Revell is now and has been for some time press agent for the Percy Williams and William Hammerstein houses in New York. Morris Gest is business manager for Mlle. Polaire, the French dancer who has been headlined at Hammerstein's for the past two or three weeks.

Miss Revell has been pulling a nice line of press stuff for Polaire and is rather proud of it. Mr. Gest, so the story runs, wittingly or unwittingly, interfered with Nellie's work and got in bad. The pair came together in the lobby of the Victoria theater not long ago and, when words failed the able-bodied press agent, she punched him in the jaw.

K. & E. TAKE LEASE ON ATLANTA HOUSE.

New York, July 13.—It is announced that Klaw & Erlanger have leased the Orpheum theater in Atlanta, Ga., as a home for their attractions until the completion of the theater which Joel Hurt is building for them there. It is now claimed that, with the addition of the Atlanta house the syndicate will next season be just as strong in the south as it has been for the past twenty years.

Improvements at Youngstown.

Youngstown, Ohio, July 13.—Contracts for extensive improvements to the Park theater in this city have just been let. A new switchboard and lighting system will be installed to make the Park a better home for the big New York attractions en route.

GIVEN PROMOTION IN SAN FRANCISCO

E. L. Lomax has been appointed passenger traffic manager of the Western Pacific Railway with headquarters in the Mills building, San Francisco; he entered upon his new duties July 1.

The Show World but voices the opinion of the whole amusement profession when it says that there is no more popular railroad official dealing with the members of the profession. Mr. Lomax has the best wishes for his success from players and managers in all departments of the business.

ROMONA'S BIRTHPLACE OPENED TO THE PUBLIC.

San Diego, Cal., July 13.—The old adobe building here known for a quarter of a century as the birthplace of Romona has been restored to its former beauty and opened to the public by Tommy Getz, author of "A Night in Bohemia." The place covers a city block and, with its flowers, fountains, and interesting relics of the past, is a particularly interesting place for sightseers.

INCORPORATE AMUSEMENT COMPANIES

New York, July 13.—The State Amusement Company has been incorporated. The given capital is $4,000. Joseph Scull, Brooklyn; David B. Bartelstone and Max Rothberg, of New York, and one other are the incorporators. C. F. Brooks, Harry Brooks, and Earl G. Brooks, all of Dunkirk, N. Y., have incorporated the C. F. Brooks Company, amusements, with a capital of $5,000.

Joseph R. Grismer, former associate of W. A. Brady, and husband of Phoebe Davies, the star of "Way Down East," is said to be worth $2,000,000.

"It pays to advertise in The Show World"

Terre Haute House.

Terre Haute, Ind., Friday June 8.

Mr Warren A. Patrick, Managing Editor,
The Show World Publishing Company,
Grand Opera House Building,
Chicago, Illinois

My Dear Sir--

I wish to take this opportunity, to let you know the amount of good that I have derived from my recent front page display in your paper. A great many people are of the opinion that all theatrical papers are swayed by advertising, and that if you do not advertise in a paper it will invariably roast you. I am pleased to say that your paper was very gracious to me at all times. I received some very fine notices from your critics and I had never placed any advertising with you. Many people told me that they had seen the writeups I received in your papers and also many managers, and I made up my mind that if managers saw those writeups they would see my advertising. That was the reason that I placed my ad with you, and it was very pleasing for me to walk in numerous offices in Chicago and see my front page display on The Show World, on nearly every desk, in every office I went in.

Permit me to thank you and allow me to say that I for one think "It pays to advertise in The Show World" and I am now preparing a full page ad for one of your early issues.

Thanking you again for your kindness, I am

Very cordially yours

Carl McCullough

BLAND ORGANIZES DECORATING COMPANY.

The Imperial Decorating Co. has ened offices in the Times building, Fifth avenue, Chicago, and will ndle pictorial and scenery painting, gns of all kinds and society and litical banners.

L. Bland, the manager, has been in the decorating business for many ars and is well known in Chicago, nples of his work appearing in the ympic and Majestic theaters, Amern Music Hall, White City, etc.

Moving Picture theaters will be ade a specialty. Mr. Bland stated a representative of The Show orld that arrangements had been ade to handle work in any part of e country on short notice.

A rumor, generally credited in ris, has it that the Eiffel Tower s been purchased by an American ncern and is to be transplanted to is country as a Coney Island attraction.

SALES CO. RELEASES.

"Two Maids," by the Imp company, released July 25, length 990 feet. Two young men endeavoring to propose to two young maids are continually prevented. The girls decide to call on a friend in the country, and upon their arrival find their friend's servants have left. The hostess' mother-in-law is coming to visit, and the two girls agree to act as maids. The husband brings the two lovers home for a week's visit who recognize the masquerading of their sweethearts, and succeed in having their proposals accepted.

"Bear Ye One Another's Burdens," by the Imp company, released July 28, length 975 feet.

The nervous tension of a young broker about to swing a gigantic deal causes paralysis. Through the treachery of his partners he loses his all. His wife takes up the burden of the support of the family to keep him in a contented mind. She pleads social duties but her real duties entirely unknown to him are taken up doing odd bits of sewing for revenue. Leaving him one evening to take her sewing to deliver—leaving her baby and husband alone—the baby in its pranks overturns the lamp and the home immediately takes fire. In the agony of a suspense he recovers the entire use of limbs and faculties—puts out the fire, and in roaming around the house discovers the sewing machine and realizes what the wife has done during his sickness. The wife returns from her errand and they confront each other with realization.

"The Romance of an Anvil," by Champion Film Co., released July 20, length 1,000 feet. By the terms of a will Grace must marry Carson in order for both to inherit great wealth. In case of her refusal she is to be cut off, and should she die he is to get the estate. He sets out to bring her demise, and bribes a blacksmith's helper to tamper with the shoe of her saddle horse, causing the animal to run away. The helper, alarmed, attempts a course of blackmail, and Carson kills him and tries to lay the crime on the blacksmith. A little girl, however, had witnessed the deed, and causes Carson's arrest. He gets his deserts, while Grace and the brawny young smithy are started on their world of happiness.

"The Cowboy and the Squaw," by the Champion Film Co., released July 27, length 1,000 feet. The sheriff posts a reward for the capture of Jake Simmons, a desperado. Jake is in love with Mary Loring, who in turn loves Jim Durkin, a manly young cowboy on a neighboring ranch. As Jake is pressing his suit Jim rides up, and he and Mary gallop away. Wild with rage, Jake calls some of his band and captures Mary, lifting her from her running horse onto his own, and taking her to his den. An Indian squaw whom Durkin had saved from fatal injury discovers what has happened and notifies Jim, who goes in pursuit. Jake saves himself by pointing his pistol at Mary, and threatening to kill her. Fearing for the safety of his sweetheart, Jim gives himself up as a prisoner in her place. Jake ties him to a wild broncho and sends him galloping to his doom, from which he is rescued by the Indian squaw. Jim then fights a duel with Jake, takes him prisoner, and turns him over to the sheriff.

CHAMPION FIRST RELEASE IS FEATURE FILM SUBJECT.

"The Abernathy Kids to the Rescue," released July 13 by the Champion Film Co., demonstrates the enterprise of Mark M. Dintenfass in securing the services of these boys for a film subject in the face of severe competition in this direction from trust and independent manufacturers.

The boys have been made famous by the publicity they received covering their horseback ride from Oklahoma City, Okla., to New York to greet Col. Roosevelt upon his return.

MOVING PICTURES CONTROLLED IN CANADA

Toronto, Can., July 13.—The amendment to the law by which the exhibition of moving picture prize fights is prohibited was signed by the lieutenant-governor Saturday and is now in force all over the province of Ontario.

The amended clause in the law reads: "No exhibition will be permitted on Lord's Day, except in connection with religious service, by permit of the provincial treasurer, and no picture of immoral or obscene nature or pictures reproducing a prize fight shall be shown or exhibited, and any member of the Ontario provincial police force shall have the power to prohibit the exhibition of any of the said pictures or other objectionable pictures.

SECOND RELEASE

"THE ROMANCE OF AN ANVIL"

THE STORY of a big smithy with a heart as big as the Lusitania. You'll love him, and you'll be the biggest booster of CHAMPION FILMS when you've seen it.

CITY COUNCIL HALTS AIRDOME CONSTRUCTION

Now There Is Promise of Legal War Waged by Manager Harvey D. Orr.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 13.—There is promise of a legal jam between the municipal authorities here and Harvey D. Orr and James McMahan, of the Harvey Stock Company, as the result of the attempted construction of an airdome.

Some time ago Mr. Harvey applied to city council for a permit to erect an airdome in the heart of the city; his petition was referred to the building committee, the building inspector and the chief of police, with power to act.

Contractor Van Eck, who had been employed by Mr. Orr to erect the airdome, is also building inspector for the city, and went ahead with the construction work. After some progress had been made the city council ordered the work stopped and directed that that portion of the airdome which had already been put up be torn down. It was claimed that Contractor Van Eck had started to build without having been given permission.

Mr. Orr is undecided as to whether or not he will sue the city for the amount which he expended in doing the work which the city so summarily had undone. The Harvey company, in the meantime, is playing a temporary engagement at Albion.

Business at the Gem theater, with vaudeville and pictures, continues good.

SWANSON OPENS FILM EXCHANGE IN DENVER

Wm. H. Swanson has closed his Omaha, Neb., office and is opening a film exchange in Denver, Colo., under the management of J. E. Hennesy. To a representative of The Show World Mr. Swanson said:

"The Denver office will not be a branch office, but will be run as an individual exchange, buying its own film and handling its own customers. I believe that there is need of a good, independent exchange in that territory and that Mr. Hennessy's experience will enable him to handle our clients in a satisfactory manner."

Mr. Hennessy was formerly connected with the Theater Film Supply Co., of Birmingham, Ala., and the Calumet Film Exchange, Chicago.

Swanson also Manufacturer

Mr. Swanson has begun the release of his films, having also joined the ranks of the manufacturers. Several reels of his first releases were exhibited to a representative of The Show World, and if he can keep up the quality his success is assured. He is enthusiastic over his productions, and said:

"I have been in the exchange and exhibition business long enough to know the kind of films exhibitors want, and you just watch 'Billie' produce the money getters."

GERMAN PLAN WITH MOVING PICTURES

The Germans have a novel method of managing their moving picture shows. The highest admission price is one mark ($0.238) and the lowest forty pfennigs ($0.95). Tickets are stamped with the hour of arrival and, between series, notices are displayed on the canvas that certain time tickets have expired and that supplementary tickets may be purchased from ushers without going outside. Ushers pass through the audience and see that persons holding expired tickets do not remain. The usual length of one admission is two hours. Excellent music is furnished by small orchestras, and in some larger theaters there are brass bands. At some of the popular theaters both smoking and drinking are permitted.

Quantity
Reliability

Quality
Responsibility

We want to tell our allies, the exhibitors, something about the business of our office. Notwithstanding that the Summer season is on, our customers seem to be doing a steadily increasing business.

THIS MEANS

that exhibitors are joining the Independent ranks. They are realizing that and many of them are writing in to us directly to say that they are glad to have the opportunity to avail themselves of our program. We are putting out the strongest and most reliable program on earth, and it is only a question of a man's independence as to whether he joins us or not. We say to the exhibitor who has never tried an Independent service, "How'd you like people to avoid your theatre in favor of a competitor's without ever having been in your place?"

WE HAVE THE GOODS

YOU WOULD ASK FOR A CHANCE

wouldn't you? Therefore it ill becomes you to have an opinion of independent service unless you've tried our latest combined program of 28 REELS WEEKLY.

EVERY MONDAY

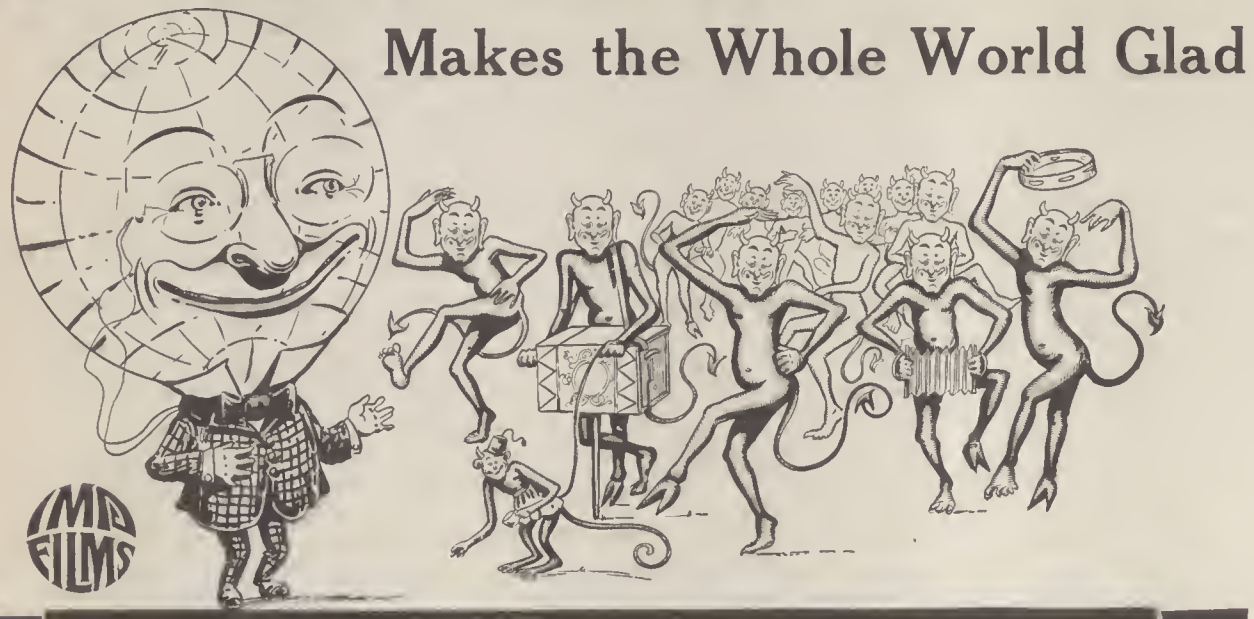
One Touch of "IMPFUN"

Makes the Whole World Glad



ANOTHER IMP COMEDY

"TWO MAIDS"—Released Monday, July 25th. Length about 990 feet. This is clear out of the beaten path of moving picture comedies and will be joyously welcomed by the keenest critics among your patrons. Wait till you see the two heroines disguise themselves as waitresses; then you'll see why we say this is one of the cleanest, richest, highest-class films ever produced by anybody anywhere, anytime. Begin to ask for it NOW.

A GREAT IMP DRAMA

"BEAR YE ONE ANOTHER'S BURDENS"—Released Thursday, July 28th. About 975 feet long. A gripping story of a young broker, his treacherous partners, his wife and baby. In this film we show a fire scene which we predict will create a tremendous sensation. It is a fitting climax to the absorbingly dramatic plot. It is the kind you will want for a return date. Remember the release date—July 28th. You simply MUST have it.

THE STAGE IN EUROPE

Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird," which will be seen at the New theater in New York next season, has been performed 220 times at the Haymarket, in London.

A Berlin cablegram announces that, according to the Boersen Courier, the so-called American theater trust has arranged to invade that city. It will build an up-to-date house in which German plays will be tried out before they are sent to the United States for production in English.

Laurence Irving, now in London, will produce the play which E. H. Sothern exploited in this country under the title, "The Fool Hath Said in His Heart." Mr. Irving, however, will change the title to "The Unwritten Law," and will appear in the role originated by Mr. Sothern.

Ellen Terry's ninth American tour will begin in New York with three appearances, on November 2, 10 and 17, at the Hudson theater. She will give talks on Shakespeare, with illustrative acting in Elizabethan costume. The subjects of the talks will be "The Women of Shakespeare," "The Children of Shakespeare" and "The Letters of Shakespeare."

Frau Anna Schramm is seventy-five years of age and still a much-employed actress. Night by night she delights the Berlin audiences by her funny acting. She is the Comic Old Woman—Komische Alte, as the Germans express it—of the royal playhouse. This theater is the kaiser's private property.

The German emperor devotes $375,000 annually of his private purse to the up-keep of the royal playhouses in Berlin, and $125,000 more on the royal theaters in Wiesbaden, Hanover and Cassel. These represent the annual deficits. If the municipality of Berlin acquires the present Royal Opera house for a naval museum the kaiser will be able to realize his ambition of erecting a magnificent new opera house to cost nearly $5,000,000.

Some interesting particulars are published respecting the Scottish Repertory theater in Glasgow, which has just reached its first anniversary. During the thirty-six weeks of its working season thirty-six plays were produced and 251 performances given. Fourteen new pieces were presented. All this was accomplished on a capital of $15,000, almost entirely subscribed in small sums by middle-class citizens of Glasgow. The theater is governed by a board of directors and an advisory board, and is run practically upon the stock system.

Genevieve Ward, the veteran American actress, or Comtesse de Guerbrei, as she is known in private life, although seventy-two years of age, recently appeared at His Majesty's theater, London, in the part of Volumnia in "Coriolanus," under F. R. Benson's management. She was in robust health and played superbly, declining the assistance of a stage carpenter, who tried to help her down stairs from her dressing room. She has not appeared in a long time. Her Lady Macbeth is considered unrivaled. Her first appearance in England was made in 1876, at the Royal theater, Manchester, in that role.

The Honorable Helen Scott Montagu, the 20-year-old daughter of Lord and Lady Montagu of Beaulieu, is the latest recruit to the stage, and has joined the theatrical profession under Sir Herbert Tree, at His Majesty's theater, London, having already made her appearance before the footlights in merely "talking" parts. Through her mother she is the granddaughter of the ninth Marquis of Lothian, while her father's grandfather was the fifth Duke of Buccleuch and Queensbury. The young actress' father, Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, is the owner and editor of The Car magazine.

"OCULAR OPERA" FOR ROAD CITIES.

New York, July 13.—"Ocular opera," new to the rank and file of theatergoers is to be attempted during the coming season in this country under the direction of Max Rabinoff and G. P. Centanini. Ocular opera, be it known, is the presentation of big spectacular narrative productions without words or song.

The promoters have secured Anna Pavlowa and Michael Mordkin, premiere danseuse and premier danseur at the Imperial Opera House, Moscow, for a tour of this country, Mexico, and Cuba. The dancers will appear with a complete Russian ballet and orchestra, making a company of about sixty. It is planned to transport the organization in special trains and to present the dances with particularly elaborate stage settings.

Pavlowa and Mordkin came to this country last season for a four weeks' engagement with the Metropolitan Opera Company and will play with the same organization for six weeks this season, prior to their road tour.

Looking after the details of the road journey is Ben H. Atwell, one-time city editor of the Chicago Journal, and later director of publicity at Forest Park in the Windy City.

NEW THEATER SCHEME ON IN SAN FRANCISCO.

San Francisco, Cal., July 13.—A new theater patterned after the one recently opened in New York is planned for this city. Prominent men and women who last season made a success of the high class concerts and dramatic readings in the St. Francis hotel are behind the movement.

The playhouse is to be erected by subscription and attendance at the plays will, for the most part, be by invitation. During a part of the season high class grand opera is to be the attraction.

CHURCH AND THEATER GETTING TOGETHER

Redlands, Cal., July 13.—The church and the theater are getting together in this city. Arrangements have just been made through which religious services will be held each Sunday evening during the summer months in the Airdome theater. The pastors of the First Congregational and the First Presbyterian churches, two of the most fashionable congregations in the city, are to have the services in charge.

In addition to a short sermon and music by the church choirs, there are to be two reels of moving pictures; the pictures are to be travel views and subjects of a religious nature.

BAKER THEATER PASSES IN PORTLAND

Portland, Ore., July 13.—The Historic Baker theater here is to be razed to make way for a modern six-story business block; the curtain was lowered in the house for the last time July 4. The Baker had housed amusements for twenty odd years.
